Washington, April 22.—The question of senators, congressmen and other public officials receiving outside pay while supposedly devoting their full time to public business has been raised in connection with the prohibition controversy.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—Theodore Roosevelt, son of the late president, today urged the repeal or modification of the Volstead act and the substitution of local option in the various states, permitting alcoholic beverages of a content legal under the constitution. Speaking before the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, the former assistant secretary of the navy asserted that the prohibition enforcement act "has brought about law violation on a more commercialized and gigantic scale than our country has ever known before."

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—An executive meeting of the house agriculture committee broke up in a row tonight when Chairman Haugen agreed to withdraw from his farm relief bill the equalization fee on crops, the chief financial feature of the corn belt plan for stabilizing prices.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—The conviction and removal from the bench of Federal Judge George W. English, of the eastern Illinois district, was demanded of the senate today by managers for the house.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES. Washington, April 22.—A plan for settlement of France's four billion dollar war debt to the United States will be agreed upon by the American commission and Ambassador Berenger within a week or less, it was predicted authoritatively today.

SMITH COULD NOT BE CANDIDATE, FRIENDS SAY. Interest in the race for governor was stimulated Thursday by the above dispatch referring to the probable candidacy of Mr. Holder, chairman of the state highway commission. Arrival of former United States Senator Hoke Smith, from Washington, who has been discussed as a candidate, added further interest to the race.

Thursday afternoon for the first matinee bill of the week, the Metropolitan offered Wolf-Ferrari's "Jewels of the Madonna," a new opera for Atlanta and one that thrilled the large matinee audience with the dramatic force of its orchestration, chorus ensemble work and brilliance of its stars.

Senators and congressmen are forbidden by law to act as attorneys for claimants in cases pending before government departments. This was the principle involved in the recent department of justice prosecution of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana.

Smith escaped with a few minor bruises about the hands, although the straw hat he was wearing was burst and torn into shreds, police were told. He and Miss Montaine were rushed to the Davis-Fischer hospital in the automobile of B. C. Hood, who lives on the Powers Ferry road, near the scene of the accident. "She was conscious all the way to the hospital, and I never dreamed that she was fatally hurt," Smith is quoted as having told the county officers when they arrested him—about 3 hours after the mishap.

When Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate for governor of New York in 1925 he was endorsed by the Anti-Saloon league as its hope against the "wet" sentiments of Governor Smith.

During the argument members advanced threateningly toward one another, fists were pounded on tables and a babel of voices was raised. Representative Williams, republican, Illinois, declared that Mr. Haugen was abandoning the principle of farm relief legislation for which he had fought many years, while Representative Purnell, republican, Indiana, added that the measure would be "unintelligible" and "worthless" without the equalization fee.

The new French proposal was described as "much better" than the final offer of French Finance Minister Caillaux, which was rejected by the American commission October 1, last year. The high lights of the proposal were outlined Thursday.

Many prominent Georgia men have been mentioned in connection with the race for governor and there have been definite announcements from several that they will enter the race or are seriously considering such a course. W. Cecil Neill, speaker of the house of representatives, and J. Howard Ennis, of Milledgeville, president of the Senate, have announced that they will run for governor. B. E. Mann, of Brunswick, representative in the legislature from Glynn county, has announced and is now conducting a campaign for election. Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, announced recently that he will make the race and will announce his platform later. Rev. S. R. Watson, a minister of Athens, is seriously considering an entry into the race, he announced recently. J. O. Wood, a member of the legislature from Fulton county also has announced for governor.

Giovanni Martignelli, recovered from the slight indisposition that to some degree hampered his work Monday night, gave a rendition of the difficult role of Gennaro that held every auditor enthralled with the suspense of the developing madness of the man. Florence Easton, singing the role of Malibella for the first time, repeated her triumphs. Other roles in so far as her lovely soprano is concerned, and added the ability of a tragic actress who impressed her hearers with the vivid intensity of her presentation of the fateful role.

Following disclosure in the senate prohibition hearing that the federal prohibition administrator at Pittsburgh was drawing $6,000 a year from the government and also his regular salary of $12,000 a year as an executive of one of the U. S. Steel corporation railroads, it became known that some congressmen have accepted fees for making speeches on prohibition. Several senators have made similar addresses but have declined fees accepting only expense money to cover railroad fare and hotel bills.

Smith was taken to the Fulton county jail and locked up under a charge of involuntary manslaughter and detained without bond, at the direction of Solicitor General John A. Boykin, who stated his office would begin a thorough probe of the affair Friday morning.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he is opposed to the return of the saloon. "I am convinced," he said, "that the repeal or modification of the Volstead law does not preclude the return of the saloon. That can be prevented by enactment."

The motion will be disposed of tomorrow. During the argument members advanced threateningly toward one another, fists were pounded on tables and a babel of voices was raised. Representative Williams, republican, Illinois, declared that Mr. Haugen was abandoning the principle of farm relief legislation for which he had fought many years, while Representative Purnell, republican, Indiana, added that the measure would be "unintelligible" and "worthless" without the equalization fee.

It will provide for payment of about $6,700,000,000 by France in 62 years. Her debt is now figured around $4,300,000,000. The debt will be settled on a present value of about 50 cents on the dollar, under the plan, comparing with less than this under the rejected Caillaux offer, and 25 cents under the Italian plan.

Dr. Kinard then drove Smith to Madison avenue and West Mitchell street where Smith and a brother operate a soda fountain and confectionery stand. It was here that Lieutenant Oliver and Officers Webb and Neal located Smith and placed him under arrest. He was taken to the Fulton county jail and locked up under a charge of involuntary manslaughter and detained without bond, at the direction of Solicitor General John A. Today's procedure was the tenth time in the history that managers for the house had appeared before the senate to demand the impeachment of a public official.

As to just what form the payments under the new French proposal will take has not been divulged here. If the payments for the first five years are fixed at $25,000,000 a year, as announced in France, the latter payments will have to be increased considerably over those provided in the final Caillaux offer, which called for $40,000,000 annually for the first five years, $30,000,000 the following seven years.

MERIL TEBBETTS FACES U. S. CHARGE

Miami, Fla., April 22.—(AP)—Meril C. Tebbetts, president of the Florida Cities Finance company, owners and developers of Fulford-By-The-Sea, held in jail here on a charge of using the mails to defraud, tonight issued a statement in which he declared himself in the "position of many an honest man who finds himself cheated by circumstances from making good on his promises."

Mr. Tebbetts waived preliminary hearing this afternoon and returned to jail in default of $25,000 bond. His case will come before the next session of the federal grand jury.

The affidavit filed against Tebbetts charged that he mailed or caused to be mailed "in furtherance of a scheme to defraud: Sale of stock in the Florida Cities Finance company and the sale of building lots at Fulford-By-The-Sea, under representation that dividends would be paid on the stock and numerous and sundry improvements would be made to increase the value of the building lots, among them being a $50,000,000 university, a $3,000,000 hotel, and a tropical lake."

In a formal statement issued tonight, Mr. Tebbetts said:

"We are simply the position of many an honest man who finds himself cheated by circumstances from making good on his promises. We made promises as to our plans of development. We felt justified since about $4,000,000 of the $10,000,000 or more of the property sold would pay for the performance of every promise."

WHITEMORE SCORES IN BUFFALO TRIAL

Buffalo, N. Y., April 22.—(AP)—Eighteen persons testified in supreme court late today that Richard Reese Whitmore, New York bank robber, was attending a birthday party in Philadelphia at such an hour early on October 29 last; that it would have been physically impossible for him to have been in Buffalo to lead a gang of robbers in the killing of two bank messengers, and the theft of $303,000 from the Bank of Buffalo armored car.

Whitmore, they asserted, was at a birthday party in the home of Mrs. Dora Jansen, Philadelphia, and remained there until about 4:30 o'clock on the morning of the 29th. Also at the party were Jake Kramer, Leon Kramer and Milton Goldberg, members of the bandit gang which obtained loot aggregating $800,000 in robberies in New York city.

Witnesses who swore that Whitmore was at the party included a woman choir singer and her husband, a pharmacist, a cafe waiter and his wife, a nephew by marriage of the Kramer brothers, a negro maid formerly engaged by Mrs. Jansen, the estranged husband of Mrs. Jansen, and Mrs. Jansen herself, star witness for the defense.

The defense expects to close its case tomorrow with the calling of three or four more witnesses. It was learned from a reliable source tonight that Whitmore will not take the stand.

There is a probability that the case may be given to the jury late tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Dora Jansen was on the witness stand when court adjourned. She is 38 years old and was a graduate nurse in Germany before she came to the United States in 1912. Mrs. Jansen said that she had planned no elaborate party to celebrate her birthday, on October 28, but Jake Kramer attended and brought with him the defendant, Whitmore, and Goldberg about 1 o'clock that night.

A cereal youngsters eat without coaxing—get Puffed Wheat

GIVING children a cereal food is one thing; making them like it is another. Most children must be coaxed.

Puffed Wheat, probably the most unique cereal food known, overcomes that factor in a delightful way.

It tastes like toasted nutmeats and crunches in the mouth like fresh toast; children revel in it like a confection. A food, at last, that's "good" for them, that they eat because they love it.

Make it tomorrow's breakfast. Try, too, as a bedtime snack that will not impose on the digestion. Obtain at any grocery store.

MORNING PAPERS HONOR SCHAEFER

New York, April 22.—(AP)—A. Schaefer, business manager of the Fort Wayne, Ind., Journal-Gazette, was elected president of the Morning Newspaper Publishers' Association of America at the annual meeting here today.

Emerson B. Knight, of Indianapolis, president of Emerson B. Knight, Inc., was appointed to direct the advertising during the ensuing year. The association plans to spend $40,000 in newspaper advertising and for the promotion of the morning newspaper field.

It was decided to meet again in Chicago in October during the annual convention of the Audit Bureau of Circulation.

The association, which was organized five years ago, covers 26 states and comprises 88 morning newspaper members.

NEW TYPOGRAPHICAL AGREEMENT IS MADE.

New York, April 22.—(AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers' association, in annual convention today, authorized the drawing of an arbitration contract for use by its members in dealing with the International Typographical union.

The proposed contract, based upon one presented by the committee of arbitration contracts, provides that in newspaper shops where the Typographical union is recognized, a local arbitration committee shall pass upon any points in dispute between the publisher and employees. Appeal from the committee is provided in the establishment of an international arbitration committee, representing the A. N. P. A. and the I. T. U.

The question of an open shop is not subject to arbitration under the proposed contract, a union composing room being pronounced one in which "the union has been formally recognized by the publisher."

The agreements provided in the contract will be in effect for five years after formal ratification of the contract by the I. T. U. and the international referendum committee. This ratification is expected at the annual meeting of the I. T. U. in August or September.

The adoption of the arbitration contract by the A. N. P. A. marked the first definite step in formulating an agreement since the previous contract with the I. T. U. expired in 1922. Since that time members have acted independently in making labor contracts.

Rites in Brunswick For Judge Crovatt, City's Former Mayor

Brunswick, Ga., April 22.—(Special.)—There was a halt in practically all lines of business here yesterday during the funeral of Judge Alfred J. Crovatt, 68, beloved Brunswick citizen, whose death Tuesday came as a distinct shock as his condition was not regarded as serious.

The funeral services were held from St. Mary's Episcopal church. The large number of floral offerings attested to the popularity of Judge Crovatt, who was twice mayor of Brunswick and for 15 years was referee in bankruptcy in this district.

Judge Crovatt was born in Charleston in 1858, spent his boyhood in that city, and was graduated from the Carolina Military institute, now the Citadel. After his graduation, he moved to this city with his parents in 1875, began the study of law and was admitted to the bar in 1879.

He was a prominent figure in the professional, civic and social circles of Brunswick, and occupied many positions of honor and trust. He was mayor of Brunswick in 1884-85 and again in 1902-4. He had also served as judge of the old county court, was for years a member of the board of education and at one time president of that body.

During the Spanish-American war Judge Crovatt was honored when he was named special United States district attorney for the state of Florida to handle some important litigation in

Shoals' Bidders Agree to Broaden Fertilizer offers

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—With only four days remaining before a report must be made to congress, the Muscle Shoals congressional committee continued today its effort to complete negotiations with bidders.

Several bidders, including Thomas W. Martin, of the Southern Power company, and W. B. Bell, of the American Cyanamide company, discussed their proposals further with the committee and it is understood each agreed to broaden their fertilizer offers.

Represent Final Offer. The Union Carbide company, the other of the "big three" of the bidders, has informed the committee that its three proposals represented its final offer and has not been represented before the committee for several days.

When the committee submits a bill late Monday to congress, the next question will be whether it will come directly before the senate or house or be referred to committee. The real fight on this issue will be seen in the senate, as the house is expected to yield the point and take immediate action.

The senate fight over committee reference will be important as it will represent a test of strength of the opposing factions. If the joint committee's recommendations are sent to the senate agriculture committee, it probably means their death knell as Chairman Norris is hostile to any plan except government operation of Muscle Shoals and he could jockey the measure into position where it would be caught in the legislative jam of the closing session and kill it by filibuster if necessary.

Norris Tours South.

He now is touring the south inspecting Muscle Shoals and other power projects in Alabama and Tennessee but he expects to return to Washington in time to lead the attack against any form of private operation. At Sheffield, Ala., today he issued a defiant challenge to his senatorial opponent, who returned to Alabama to private interests.

When the battle opens in the senate he will be confronted by his old antagonist, Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, who returned to the senate today for the first time in weeks, to take part in the fray.

Senator Ladd, the other democrat senator, who is a member of the joint congressional committee, is expected to open the fight by proposing that the joint committee's bill be placed immediately in the senate calendar for prompt action. He declared today the senate would be called on to vote on the measure at an "early date." It probably will be called up in the house Wednesday.

Builder of Roses Grandstand Guilty Of Manslaughter

Los Angeles, April 21.—Paul F. Mahoney, builder of a grandstand which collapsed during the annual tournament of roses at Pasadena New Year's day, was convicted of manslaughter in superior court here. The jury after announcing that it was unable to reach a verdict in the case of Mahoney's co-defendant, C. B. Bucknall, a former deputy building inspector, was sent back to deliberate further.

Specifically, the two were charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. P. S. Borich, of Dallas, Texas. Three persons were killed outright in the crash and nine others died later. More than 100 were injured.

VETERAN DIES ASTENT HOME BURNS AT MIAMI

Miami, Fla., April 22.—(AP)—Richard Donker, 82, civil war veteran, was burned to death when his tent home was destroyed by fire yesterday at Hialeah, near here. Firemen, unaware that Donker had been in the tent, found his charred body later while inspecting the ruins.

Sparks from a pipe which he was smoking while reclining on a bed were believed to have caused the blaze. The single door in the small canvas structure was thought to have been enveloped in flames, barring Donker's escape.

His widow and G. W. Weston, a brother-in-law, who resided with him, were away at the time of the fire. Edward Donker, a brother of the victim, is a Chicago salesman.

RITCHIE APPEALS FOR STATE RIGHTS

Boston, April 22.—Demanding that principle replace expediency in party councils and national politics, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, in an address before the City club here Thursday night, delivered a forceful enunciation of his fight for states' rights.

Ritchie, regarded as a contender for the democratic presidential nomination in 1928, struck out vigorously against prohibition, federal child labor laws, a federal department of education and, in general, all centralization of government in Washington. He again asked that the degree of prohibition be left to the judgment of the several states.

"Too much federal government," was his description of political conditions today.

Energies Are Fettered. "The energies and enterprise of men, both in business and in all the adventures of life, are being fettered and harassed and checked by excess of government," he said. "Presently we shall not be able to bourn or to die, to eat or to sleep, to think or to speak without federal inspection."

Ritchie blamed the political parties for the apathy which he said existed among voters.

"They stood for vital things in the formative days of the republic. They did it, too, in the dark days before the civil war. They have done it on occasion since. Today they face each other with little that is fundamentally really dividing them, although the times need the application of additional principles as seldom before."

Speaking further upon the subject of indifference of the electorate, which was discussed by President Coolidge in his speech before the D. A. R. in Washington, Ritchie also fixed responsibility for it upon increasing centralization.

"Good government," he said, "depends on popular interest in government. Obviously the more remote you make the agencies of government the more the citizens lose interest. That is what is happening now with all this centralization; it is sapping the springs of political vitality. That is why men lose interest in politics. Why one-half of all voters fail to vote; why a progressive political program is so difficult."

Touching on prohibition, the Maryland executive asked that the truth be faced.

"National prohibition under the eighteenth amendment," he said, "has bred more interstate discord and more political cowards and hypocrites and has done more damage to the body politic and to our social fabric than anything which, in my belief at least, has ever entered our national life."

"That is because you cannot regulate personal conduct and practices which differ in different localities of a varied country with a federal yardstick, applying a uniform standard everywhere."

Ritchie in scoring the movement toward a federal department of education, defended denominational schools as filling an "essential need," and deplored the "attempt to nationalize the teaching of the young."

He referred to the Countess of Cathcart episode and the action of the Watch and Ward society in arresting H. L. Mencken, editor of The American Mercury, for selling a copy of its April issue, in declaring that America was still fighting for free speech, free worship, individual liberty, security of the home and equality under the law.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom cure Piles. No surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The lower walls are weak, the parts all most dead.
It's quick and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Jacobs' Drug Store, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(ads.)

Hunt a Hunter in This Enormous Hat

Miss Louise Hunter, popular American prima donna here with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Atlanta now harbors the world's greatest straw hat, with the world's sweetest and most adorable light opera prima donna, it is shown in the picture. The big hat is to be displayed in show windows of the George Muse Clothing company today. It is big enough to envelop completely the charming form of Miss Louise Hunter, who is shown inside the gigantic topper.

It will take a mighty swell-headed man to wear this huge "skimmer." and Miss Hunter said Thursday she would "just adore" the man who the hat would fit. There are big heads of all kinds around Atlanta, particularly on mornings after, but it is hardly probably that Miss Hunter will have to exert herself in doing any adoring during the time she is here with the Metropolitan Opera company. Instead, she will be adored all the time. This monster hat measures 20 feet in circumference, is 5 feet 4.2 inches wide and 6 feet 2 inches long. The head size is 28 7/8. Manufacture of the hat cost $1,250. It required the services of two girls sewing five hours, two men working four hours and three girls trimming two hours each to complete it. In the picture Miss Hunter is shown smiling forth on Atlanta as she smiles in the Metropolitan east and also as she smiles when she comes to Atlanta in the summer to gladden eyes and ears of Atlanta people during the light opera season. The summer headgear will be shown in the window of George Muse Clothing company today and if there happens to be a swell head hereabouts who thinks he can wear the huge lid and win all that "adoring" from Miss Hunter, he is invited to try it on, say Muse officials.

Schooner Brings Starving Crew From Sea Fight

San Pedro, Cal., April 22.—(AP)—With her crew gaunt from hunger and long believed lost at sea, the four-masted schooner Irene arrived here today after 130 days' battle against adverse weather. Two members of her crew, G. I. Peterson and Fred Dale, were ill in their bunks from exposure and lack of change in diet while the remainder presented a half-starved appearance.

A succession of head winds, punctuated with calms, drove the vessel toward the south of the state. She was bound from Grays Harbor, Wash., to Miami, Fla., with a cargo of lumber via the Panama canal.

Captain A. E. Rosendal stated that had weather conditions been the Irene would have been lost. She was bound from Grays Harbor, Wash., to Miami, Fla., with a cargo of lumber via the Panama canal.

When the food and water supply began to get low everyone was placed on shorter rations in the hope the canal could be reached before the supplies gave out. The heavy head winds did not cease and it was 30 days before the Irene reached the lower California coast.

Conditions repeatedly approached a desperate stage when the water was nearly gone and no rain fell to replenish the supply. The crew managed to catch considerable fish while beached, which considerably saved them from starvation.

Captain Rosendal decided to cross the equator and attempt to pick up the trade winds, approaching the canal from the coast of Ecuador. Upon reaching the equator belt, the Irene ran into rain squalls during which the water tanks were filled by water sails along the foot of the beams.

Caught in a swift westerly sea, the vessel was shoved westward to longitude 124, closer to Honolulu than Panama.

"I would have started to finish the trip around the horn," said Captain Rosendal, but we didn't have sufficient food for so long a trip so I decided to head to Honolulu to obtain supplies. About this time the wind came up.

Germany Refuses To Lend Officers And Gas to Turks

(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

London, April 22.—There is a proverb in the Balkans to the effect that whoever wins a war, the Turk always pays. The Turk now is going to pay for permission to continue to exist. All Europe is against him, and Germany has put the lid on his hopes for resistance by placing an embargo on exportation of German officers and new German poison gases. This has been done at the express order of Foreign Minister Stresemann in return for British support of the German desire to enter the League of Nations next September.

The Turks in the meantime have informed the British that they are willing to give up Mosul or anything else Great Britain wants in return for a guarantee against extinction by the Italians and Greeks, and they have appealed to England also for a loan to enable them to reorganize industries and agriculture of the country. That also have enlisted the help of France, which is almost as scared of the Italian pretensions as the Turks, and France has notified Great Britain that it must choose between Italian and French friendship.

In the circumstances there is little choice. France is far more valuable to Great Britain than Italy, and the Turks are likely to be given a new lease on life, while the Italians' ambitions at least are postponed.

Half of Evidence Finished by State In Etheridge Trial

Gray, Ga., April 22.—(AP)—Half of the state's evidence in the trial of Atkinson Etheridge, charged with the murder of Floyd Malone and Frank Tucker, county policemen, on August 28 last year, had been submitted when court adjourned at 7 o'clock this evening until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The evidence was practically the same as presented at the trial of Grover Etheridge, a brother of Atkinson, who was convicted and whose case is now in the supreme court. The jury was completed shortly before Sheriff J. C. Middlebrooks, of Jones county, was the first witness on the stand. He testified to physical facts surrounding the finding of the bodies of Floyd Malone and Frank Tucker and the position in which they were lying. Their bodies were found near their automobile off Garrison road on Commissioner creek where they had raided a large whisky still in Jones county.

M. J. Wood was the second witness called. He testified to seeing Atkinson Etheridge drive hurriedly to James station on August 28, the date of the killing and driving hurriedly away a few minutes later. Austin Pitts, negro, took the stand and testified to seeing Etheridge. He admitted he had operated a still for Etheridge and gave much the same testimony as he did in the trial of Grover Etheridge.

Federal Board To Act in Fight On Cotton Pest

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—Possibility was seen here today that the federal horticultural board will deem it necessary soon to undertake quarantine measures to protect cotton from threatened invasion by a new insect pest, the Arizona weevil.

Continued spread in Arizona recently of the new noticed insect is considered a potential danger to southwest cotton production. The Arizona weevil, according to the bureau of entomology, is a first cousin of the boll weevil and is apparently a native of the Arizona mountains. It ordinarily feeds on shrubs and thrives in arid climate. Introduction into Arizona of cotton growing provided a food which the weevil relished.

Federal authorities consider the Arizona weevil as great a menace to the cotton industry of the southwest as the Mexican boll weevil proved to be to the southeastern cotton belt. Hearings by the federal horticultural board are expected in the near future to consider means of combating the spread.

Drive Is Started To Replace Theater Of Shakespeare

New York, April 22.—(AP)—Shakespeare's birthday, believed to be April 23, will coincide this year with an organized drive in all English-speaking countries to replace the Memorial theater at Stratford-on-Avon, destroyed last year by fire. The amount needed is $1,250,000 according to the American committee, headed by Elihu Root.

Of the sum to be raised, $500,000 is necessary for building the new theater and $750,000 for endowment.

REAL ESTATE SALES IN FLORIDA PROBED BY COMMISSION

Orlando, Fla., April 22.—(AP)—A total of 355 complaints have been filed with the Florida Real Estate commission of which 163 have been investigated and disposed of during the first six months of operation. It was shown in a report made public here tonight by Walter W. Rose, chairman, following an executive meeting of the commission. The remaining cases, the report added, are being rapidly disposed of.

According to Rose, a total of $248,375.83 in cash returns, contracts, notes and mortgages cancelled and deeds issued has been made in adjustments for the public by the commission. The report shows that fines aggregating $1,385 have been imposed in the case of 22 brokers and salesmen for operating without a license and seven for false advertising, while two licenses have been revoked, one suspended and four denied.

During the six months' period since the new real estate law became effective the commission reports the issuance of 47,823 licenses, of which 23-

584 were for brokers and 24,230 were for salesmen.

Civil war veteran. Prominent among the floral tributes was one from A. P. HILO IS SHAKEN BY SHARP QUAKE

Hilo, T. H., April 22.—(AP)—The sharpest earthquake in years shook Hilo today as an accompaniment of the latest outburst of the volcano Mauna Loa. One building was shaken eight inches from its foundations.

The lava flow slackened somewhat, but menaces the seaside village of Miloli, with its waterworks, schoolhouse and dozen homes. The fiery stream has still some distance to go, and if unreplenished at its source, may not reach the village. Refugees from the destroyed village of Hoopuloa have been cared for by the 70 inhabitants of Miloli.

Already the lava flow has moved up on the B. M. Allen estate, destroying four ranch houses and other property, doing damage of $10,000. Several hundred cattle, stampeded when the buildings took fire, may be cut off in the mountains.

Employees prepared to move goods from the McWayne ranch house as a lava river branching from the Hoopuloa flow, only two miles above, rumbled toward it along a front 200 to 300 feet.

The Hawaiian volcano observatory received a report that a lava lake was forming in the Puukooa crater, a source of the new flow. The molten rock has been shifting its front forward only eight feet an hour.

Crowds again flocked from all parts of the island to witness the latest expressions of the Goddess Pele's wrath. The heavy earthquakes felt on all the southern side of the island early today was attributed to renewed activity of Mauna Loa.

The outgushing of lava, which began late yesterday, is believed to come from Mokuawewe, the crater of Mauna Loa's summit, 13,675 feet above the sea, toward which it is pursuing a sluggish course.

After a century of Christianity the native Hawaiian's belief in Pele, goddess of fire, lingers in the country districts. This is strikingly shown by the behavior of the natives of Hoopuloa who offered sacrifices in a vain effort to halt the fire flood. They refused to remove their belongings until the last minute, thinking it impossible that Pele would not relent.

When the fiery maws at last overwhelmed their humble homes, the fishermen attributed the goddess' wrath to the greed of one landholder who ate a pig intended for sacrifice to Pele.

The Kona country through which lava flowed today is the home of legends. Kahuna, chanters of old lore of the Hawaiians, often are called upon to raise their voices in prayer to Pele. In February, Hawaiian tales say, the goddess was seen, not once but many times. She appeared as an old woman, in which form, Hawaiian's assert, she was also seen before the volcanic flows of 1907, 1916 and 1919.

CARVING BIDS ASKED FOR LUKEMAN MODEL

At a meeting Thursday the executive committee of the Stone Mountain Memorial association instructed the executive officers of the association to proceed at once to advertise for bids for carving on Stone Mountain the equestrian figures of Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, in accordance with the master model of the sculptor, Augustus Lukeman, which was submitted to and approved by the board of directors of the association at a meeting last Tuesday in the studio at Stone Mountain.

Bids will be opened by the executive committee at 12 o'clock, noon, Tuesday, May 25. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for $5,000. The carving is to be done under the supervision of the sculptor and the successful bidder will be required to give a surety bond for the satisfactory performance of the work. The master model is on display in the studio of the association at Stone Mountain, and a duplicate may be seen by prospective bidders in the studio of Mr. Lukeman in New York city. Specifications may be obtained from Mr. Lukeman or from W. L. Peel, of Atlanta, chairman of the sculptor committee.

The action calling for bids was taken in pursuance of a resolution adopted by the board of directors at their meeting Tuesday in which resolution the directors adopted Mr. Lukeman's recommendation that the carving be done by contract under his supervision, and referred the details to the executive committee with power to act.

Will for $7,000,000 Again Is Contested By 27 Heirs of Wife

The second suit against the estate of the late Jesse P. Williams, railroad owner and financier, valued at $7,000,000, was filed Thursday in Fulton superior court by 27 heirs of Mr. Williams' wife, Mrs. Cora B. Williams. The suit was directed against Misses Hattie M. and Edith C. Taylor, and the executor of the will of Mrs. Williams.

The suit, seeking to recover approximately half of the estate, is similar in many respects to the suit filed some time ago by heirs of Jesse P. Williams. The former case was settled out of court. The executor of the estate is John Lord Nishitani.

It is asked in the petition that a proper accounting of all property and holdings be given. The estate contains the Georgia, Florida & Alabama railroad, interest in other large railroads, and several large land tracts in Georgia and Alabama.

The petition sets forth that Mr. Williams, who died August 5, 1913, had an agreement with his wife that she was to hold the estate until her death, and that it was to be divided through a will to the heirs. The petition states that one-half of the property was given over to Mrs. Williams' sisters.

COUNTY MAN IS TRIED ON U. S. MAIL CHARGE

Trial of C. L. Patton, of Fulton county, on charges of using the mails to defraud, will be resumed when federal court reconvenes this morning. Judge Robert Erwin, of Alabama, is presiding for Judge Samuel H. Sibley in the federal court, northern division, of Georgia.

Patton is charged with making false and misleading statements with intent to defraud wholesale houses of goods which he had purchased from them prior to taking bankruptcy. His liabilities at the time he filed the bankruptcy petition several months ago were approximately $125,000, while his assets were listed at about $1,600.

CASH FOR PENSIONERS AVAILABLE MAY 1

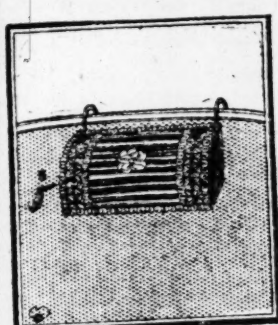

Confederate pensioners will receive back pay due them by the state about May 1, when funds will be available from sales of deferred Western and Atlantic rentals, according to information obtained at the capitol Thursday. There is no hitch in the law recently passed providing for these payments, according to Attorney General George M. Naper. Delay in paying the pensions has been due largely to clerical labor involved in handling the deal, it was learned.

TURKEY FEARING WAR WITH ITALY

BY HENRY WALES
(Copyright, 1938, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Paris, April 22.—Turkey fears a war with Italy before summer. New classes of recruits are being called to the colors for intensive military training by the Ankara government.

Next month, President Mustafa Kemal Pasha intends to head grand military maneuvers in western Asia-Minor as a counter demonstration against Premier Mussolini's manifestation.

It is estimated that the Turkish general staff can place 250,000 men in the field on a complete war footing for maneuvers which would last several weeks.

Kemal will then pronounce an important speech announcing the Ottoman determination to preserve every inch of national territory in conformity of the edicts of the national council in 1919.

Message Delivered.
This important authentic information was given by a trusted representative just arrived from Ankara and Constantinople by airplane. Telegraphable and postal orders in Turkey are rigorously blue penciling all dispatches, even opening letters mailed to suspected addresses.

A check, as secret, powerful, and dangerous as that existing in Russia, is being and counter-spying through-out Turkey, with the aim of concealing the plans of the Ottomans to defend themselves against European aggression and land-grabbing in Asia-Minor.

The surrender of Mosul and the rich oil fields in that vilayet to Great Britain is considered Turkey's sole ransom for escape from a combined Italy-Greek attack with the English navy "benevolently neutral" regarding activities of the allied fleets.

Angora government is split over a solution for the problem, certain leaders favoring the yielding of Mosul to the British and others, including Kemal, advocating direct England and accepting the suzerainty of Russia against Italy and Greece.

Soviet Proposal.
The Soviet government has proposed to Angora that Turkey enter the union of Soviet and socialist republics as an independent member in return for Moscow guaranteeing a military alliance, troops, and munitions, to aid the Turks in case of aggression.

Kemal and a strong section of the party chiefs favor accepting this proposal and linking up their destinies with the muscovites in a gigantic pan-Asian bloc against Europe if the matter is decided.

The emissaries state that the Turks are feverishly fortifying the Thracian frontier against the Greeks, although this violates the neutral zone, 200 kilometers wide, divided by the Lausanne treaty. An elaborate system of trenches supported at strong points by machine gun emplacements and artillery positions are being prepared to defend the tongue of land constituting Turkey in Europe.

All aeroplanes are forbidden to fly over Turkish territory in Europe. Passenger, freight and mail planes have been instructed to fly from the Bulgarian border to Constantinople, skirting the coast of the Black sea as far as the Dardanelles.

Buy Munitions.
Turkish agents throughout Europe are purchasing and contracting for munitions, chiefly in Germany and Czechoslovakia, the latter production being from the Skoda works.

Arms and munitions are being delivered to Turkey via Poland, Russia, and the Black sea, as Jugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria forbid the transit of such articles across their borders.

The genesis of Premier Mussolini's ambition to seek Italy as a place in the sun at the expense of Turkey in Asia-Minor, was the Sykes-Picot treaty of 1916, which divided the Ottoman empire among the allies, Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy.

The red revolution ended Russia's participation in the partition of Turkey and after the armistice Great Britain grabbed Palestine and Iraq, France seized Syria, and Italy occupied Adalia and Konia and Andania.

During the communist troubles in Italy in 1920, the Italian garrisons in Asia-Minor were withdrawn and the territory abandoned, then when Kemal organized his army, Greece was offered the Smyrna region in return for smashing the Turkish resistance.

Mussolini's Stand.
During the conversation of Sir Austen Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini at Rapallo in January the black shirt leader insisted on Italy's right to recapture the Adalia territory, pointing out that Great Britain and France were retaining their share of the war spoils and significantly remarking that the Rome government support of Great Britain's claim to Mosul for its puppet, Iraq, was based on this demand.

Premier Mussolini offered a powerful force of Italian troops to aid the British holding of Mosul if Turkey attempted to seize Mosul, despite the League of Nations and world court decision and pledged to the British foreign secretary the Italian support in the league council whenever the question was discussed.

At the same time Premier Mussolini obtained the tacit consent of Sir Austen to Italy's right to recapture the Adalia sphere.

Since then Premier Mussolini reached an accord with Jugoslavia, signing an agreement with M. Nintichich in Rome in March for an outlet to the Adriatic sea, and simultaneously the fascist dictator arranged to provide a solution of the Italian-Serb row over Fiume and an Adriatic outlet to the Adriatic sea, thereby liquidating the principal causes of the trouble with Rome.

Plans of Italy.
The Italian plans provide for using the island of Rhodes and inlet of Kas-telepor as bases for operations in Asia-Minor, and Turkish secret reports state that military preparations are rushing on in both places.

The Turks are rapidly restoring the sunken German battleship Goeben at Ismid navy yard and purchasing knock-down submarines shipped in parts and assembled on the Sea of Marmara by Germany.

Hundreds of powerful mines are being prepared in the Dardanelles and motorized six and eight-inch howitzers are being organized to permit the rushing of artillery to Gallipoli to cross the Straits as the Lausanne treaty forbids permanent fortifications in peace time.

The political developments in Greece are aiding Premier Mussolini's maneuvers for a Hellenic alliance with General Pangalos into a dictator on a program of developing the army and restoring the Greek prestige.

DRAFT NEW NICKEL PLATE MERGER PLAN

New York, April 22.—(AP)—One of the first important steps toward the drafting of a new Nickel Plate merger plan was taken by the Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland today when they conferred here with bankers and officials of the Erie and Pere Marquette railroads, two of the systems included in their proposed $1,500,000,000 unification.

Discussions between the Van Sweringens, E. N. Brown, chairman of the Erie railroad, and Charles Kane, chairman of the finance committee of the Erie railroad, were said to involve the extension of more liberal terms to stockholders of both companies for an exchange of shares.

Since the original plan was drafted, the Pere Marquette has increased its common stock from $100 million to $150 million, and the Erie has staged a comeback in earning power which has led to agitation for a re-summation of divided payments on the preferred bonds.

The chief obstacle to the inclusion of the Chesapeake and Ohio in the merger was believed to have been removed when the Van Sweringens gave minority interests representation on the board, abolishing the interlocking directorate feature and voted higher dividends.

The accident, which occurred on Central avenue, Hapeville, was investigated by Police Chief L. T. Melton, of the Hapeville force, who preferred charges of reckless driving against Williams.

Elmore Fowler, 16, of 17 Windsor street, was taken to Grady hospital Thursday suffering from a fractured rib, caused, he told doctors, when he was knocked down by an ice wagon.

Young Fowler did not say where the accident happened and no reports has been filed at police station.

L. D. Harris, 8-year-old negro, of a Hawkins alley address, and another young negro, J. P. Murray, of a Hilliard street address, were bruised when a puskart which they were propelling jumped into a motor truck, parked on Hilliard street near Wheat street.

Police are searching for an unidentified driver of a light touring car that was abandoned Thursday after it crashed into the front steps of the home of Mrs. Helela Samsnet at 500 Culbertson street, West End. The car was badly damaged. It was sent to a local garage by Call Brothers, Clay and Crankshaw, who investigated.

MAN HURT AS CAR COLLIDES WITH MOTOR
In a collision of an automobile and a street car on Peachtree street, A. B. Jones, of 185 Cherokee avenue, suffered a cut on the hand and other slight injuries. He was taken to Grady hospital and dismissed after emergency treatment. A companion who was riding in the auto with Jones escaped hurt, it is said.

B. J. Mitchell, of 413 Fourth avenue, East Lake, was injured about the body when, it is said, he was struck down by an auto near his home. He was given treatment at Grady. The name of the driver was not learned.

Michigan Phone Firm Is Named In Court Case
Lansing, Mich., April 22.—(AP)—Quo warrant proceedings designed to compel the Michigan Bell Telephone company to show cause why it should not be forced to surrender its franchise and discontinue doing business in Michigan were instituted in the state supreme court today by Andrew B. Dougherty, attorney general.

The attorney general charged that for several years the company has been "merely the screen behind which the American Telephone and Telegraph company, its owner, has sought to operate in this state as an unregulated and unlawful monopoly."

The attorney general's petition was based almost entirely upon the relationship of the A. T. & T. with the Michigan company, the alleged monopoly of telephone service set up by the A. T. & T. through subterfuge and a claim that the A. T. & T. control has been largely responsible for inefficient telephone service in this state.

"The Michigan company, through the surrender of its corporate functions, business and powers to the A. T. & T. has been obliged to submit to the absolute dictation of the A. T. & T. the petition averred, 'regardless of public necessity or convenience, greatly to the detriment of telephone users in this state.'"

White's Trial Postponed.
Due to inability of his attorneys to be present, the trial of W. H. White, Jr., former president of the White Provision company, on a charge of embezzlement, was postponed Thursday. Branch and Howard are attorneys for White. The trial was to have gone before Judge Frank McManey at the Fulton superior court.

DR. BUNCHE HONORED BY U. S. DOCTORS

Dallas, Texas, April 22.—(AP)—While the house of delegates of the American Medical Association selected Washington, D. C., for the next year's meeting and elected officers, other delegates of the annual convention here today discussed the question whether the unfit should be permitted to live.

The double program of business and science brought to a close the fourth day of the convention, which ends tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. Jabez North Jackson, of Kansas City, was named president-elect. He will assume the office at the next convention succeeding Dr. Wendell Phillips of New York, president of the American Medical Association.

Dr. John O. McReynolds of Dallas was elected vice president over another Dallas physician, Dr. E. M. Rosser, in a competition which brought one of the most tense moments of the meeting.

Dr. McReynolds's wife yesterday was elected president of the women's auxiliary.

Dr. Olin West of Chicago and Dr. F. C. Warrushin of Grand Rapids, Mich., were reelected respectively secretary and speaker of the house. Dr. Austin A. Hayden of Chicago was reelected treasurer. After two attempts in which no candidate received a majority, Dr. Allen H. Bunce of Atlanta, Ga., was named vice speaker.

Considerable competition resulted between Dr. Joseph A. Pettit of Portland, Oregon, and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university, for a trustees' position vacated by expiration of Dr. Pettit's term. The election required two ballots and Dr. Pettit finally won by a single vote. Dr. Charles W. Richardson of Washington and Dr. J. H. J. Upham of Columbus, Ohio, were reelected to succeed themselves on the board.

Dr. Rock Sleyster of Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, vice speaker, was named a trustee to succeed the late Dr. Thomas McDavitt of St. Paul, Minn.

The death rate from diphtheria in 1900 was 43.3 per 1,000; now it is 9.4 per 1,000.

HI-JACKERS STEAL $50,000 IN LIQUOR FROM MAN'S CELLAR

Monterey, Calif., April 22.—(AP)—Fifty thousand dollars worth of rare liquors was the haul of a gang of 12 masked and armed hi-jackers who broke into the concrete and steel store room of A. K. Macomber, internationally known horseman, at Pebble Beach, near here, early yesterday.

The marauders, who descended upon Stewart Packenthal, caretaker, and his wife and 7-year-old daughter, bound them and set a guard over them, then went about their work deliberately. It took eight hours for them to break into the vault and load the loot into automobile trucks.

Macomber is in Paris. He has not occupied the house for several years.

WHEN NORTH CAROLINA GAVE UP HER CLAIM TO THE WESTERN LANDS IN 1784, HER FRONTIERSMEN, LEFT UNPROTECTED, FORMED A GOVERNMENT FOR THEIR LANDS WHICH THEY NAMED "THE STATE OF FRANKLIN" AND MADE JOHN SEVIER GOVERNOR. NORTH CAROLINA DISPUTED THIS MOVE AND FOR A TIME THERE WAS GRAVE DANGER OF A CIVIL WAR.

LATER, SEVIER WAS REWARDED FOR HIS MANY SERVICES BY GEORGE WASHINGTON WHO APPOINTED HIM A GENERAL. SEVIER ALSO SERVED AS GOVERNOR OF TENNESSEE FROM ITS ADMISSION AS A STATE INTO THE UNION (1796) UNTIL 1810.

LUMBER CITY SPAN FURNISHES HOPE

Lumber City, Ga., April 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Governor Clifford Walker, in the closing speech of the day at the bridge opening ceremony here, criticized the legislature for failing to pass the highway bill. He said that the state highway department also was too "autocratic in dealing with counties" and that the Georgia school system "enables a child living in the city to get all the advantages and a child living in the country is given practically nothing."

"I think that the legislature should at least have given the people the right to vote on whether or not they wanted the bonds, and I think the members were officious in not doing so," he said. "The governor declared that the method of building a highway and making the county pay for a portion of it was illegal, wrong in system and wrong in principle."

"I have worked for tax reforms," continued the governor, "I do not believe that the ad valorem tax is just or that it is a fair way of raising money for the state. The highway department," continued the governor, "increases ad valorem taxes in your county and forces a county to meet a portion of the expense of improving its highways through the floating of bonds."

"When a highway is so paved only 7 per cent of the cost of the road is paid. This leaves 93 per cent unpaid and the residents of those unpaved roads have to pay for paving them. This is a very heavy burden on the money that a county spends for road work should be equalized over the whole state."

"The bridge traversed by traffic today, formally opening the new route, is over a mile in length and was built by the Georgia Highway Commission, of Atlanta at a cost of $250,000."

"The bridge is one of the longest in the state."

Amusements

Coming to the Atlanta.

While "The Naked Truth," the sensational moving picture lesson which is to be shown at the Atlanta theater all of next week, is primarily presented for the teaching of physical hygiene which it embodies, it is nevertheless a splendid picture in itself, excellently staged and directed and performed by stars who stand at the top of the motion picture world.

Jack Allyn and Alice Tyrrell are appearing in one of the best dancing and musical acts of the season at Loew's Grand. The musical program played by the Apache band. There are seven members of the band and all play stringed instruments.

Now that "The Beautiful Cheat" is drawing to the close of its very successful run at the Rialto theater, admirers of Laura La Plante, the petite star of the Universal picture, will be interested to learn that Miss La Plante is working on another picture at the studios at Universal City, Calif. It is called, "The Love Thrill."

As Dry Hearing Nears End, Experts Begin To Wonder What Has Been Accomplished

Many Believe No Report Will Be Made to Senate After Hearing Is Ended.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, April 22.—As the senate committee hearings approach their end, which should arrive Saturday or Monday, many persons in Washington give consideration to what has been accomplished and where do we go from here. With respect to senate procedure, the next step should be a report by the committee to the senate; but so little have these hearings meant to the senate that it is not certain any report will be made. Officially, the occasion for the hearings is to decide whether the Volstead act should be amended. If there should be such a report, undoubtedly some members of the committee, Senators Walsh, Giff, Harrell, Means and Gillett, will unite in saying the testimony has proved there is no need to modify prohibition while one member, Reed, of Missouri, will say the testimony has proved that prohibition is all wrong. If in turn there should be a report from the judiciary committee to the senate, the situation would be approximately the same, namely, a solitary minority composed of Reed, of Missouri, making a report favorable to the "wets" and the other 14 making a "dry" report. If, finally, such reports should come to debate in the senate, just four senators, Reed, of Missouri; Bruce, of Maryland; and Stages and Edwards, of New Jersey, would talk on the "wet" side, while some 15 or 20 "drys" would support their side. If there should be a vote in the senate on some mild proposal for modification, about 20 to 25 senators at the outside would vote "wet," and at least 70 would vote "dry." All of which is the same as to say that these hearings have not changed the status of prohibition in the senate by so much as one vote or voice. So well is this known that probably there will be no report and no vote, although if Reed, of Missouri, should make a belligerent minority report doubtless Walsh or some other "dry" would feel obliged to write a majority report. So far as the senate is concerned, these millions of words of printed testimony will have passed, by the middle of next week, into the cavernous storehouses of forgotten documents in the capitol basement.

All this was expected. The "wet" senators and advocates in bringing about the hearings, had in mind not the present senate, nor the next senate, but rather the educational effect on the public, as the beginning of a campaign of agitation and propaganda. Considered as that, the hearings have given some advantage to the "wets" as it has demonstrated that at least the effectiveness of prohibition and the desirability of it can be made a subject of debate, and that men can express doubts of prohibition without being put in the position of moral outlaws. That seems like small gain, but it is something for there have been times since prohibition when the "drys" so far controlled the atmosphere of the situation as to make prohibition a thing taken for granted, and put an implied odium upon anyone who questioned the desirability of it, or the practicability of enforcing it. The "drys" will have to regain that moral advantage if they can.

As respects more concrete results, the "wets" have gained a slight advantage. Partly as a result of this agitation, and partly as a portion of the same drive, prohibition will be an issue in several elections this year. New York will have a referendum directly on it; and it will be the issue in the Pennsylvania republican primaries and in the Illinois election. It may be the issue in a few other states. That is some gain for the "wets," because in all preceding election years since the eighteenth amendment came, there has usually been not more than one state in which prohibition was raised as the issue. Granting all this as gains to the "wets," it is still small. As respects the senate, by no probable net result of the changes that may happen this year can it come about that the "wets" will gain more than four senators, and with four more they now have, they will still have less than a third. "Wets" understood that even if this beginning goes steadily well with them, it will be years before they can hope to make a change in the existing federal status of prohibition.

Church Retracts Statement About Lord's Day Body

Pittsburgh, April 22.—(AP)—Dr. Samuel Hardin Church, president of the Carnegie institute, replying today to the Lord's Day Alliance, said he would correct his statement made in Washington to the senate prohibition committee, so as to read that the alliance is interdenominational and not Baptist.

Officials of the alliance, telegraphing Dr. Church, asked him to retract the statement that "the Baptist church has organized the Lord's Day Alliance and is moving heaven and earth to wipe out every ounce of pastime and pleasure of those wretched masses who more and more are looking to Sunday as a day of recreation." The officials said the alliance was not founded by the Baptist church but by six evangelical denominations. Explaining his testimony, Dr. Church said the information sent him on which his statement was based, led him to believe that the alliance was a Baptist organization, "especially in its financial resources." He continued, "I am now informed that it is interdenominational and I withdraw the word Baptist and will correct the senate committee statement to that effect but not as to the protest itself." His testimony, he said, "had for its central theme the great peril that lies in yielding control of the United States government to organized religious forces, and I presented evidence to show that after establishing prohibition, these good but over-zealous men would prohibit in turn, all tobacco, boxing, public theaters, and Sunday recreations where profit is concerned, and establish a political dictatorship of books, theaters and the moving pictures."

Principals in "Lucia," Popular Opera Tonight

Three of the principals who will sing in Donizetti's immortal opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor," at the auditorium tonight. Right, Marion Talley, the latest American soprano to win fame in opera, who is the Lucia. Left, Beniamini Gigli, the great tenor, who is the Edgardo. Center, in the circle, Giuseppe de Luca, the ever-popular baritone, who sings in the role of Enrico.

modern operatic work. For once, we witnessed an opera with scenes laid in modern times. Many of the men on the stage wore "College Kut" clothes; there were a couple of dozen straw hats; at least one stove-pipe hat, and a few Panama hats, blue sack coat and white flannel trousers.

Greatest of Thrillers.

It was a blood-curdling thriller. It outdid all the melodrama of the old days along the Bowery, and it was sent with a fidelity and power that bespoke its perfection by reason of the cold chills that raced up and down the audience's collective spine at frequent intervals.

In the appearance tonight of Marion Talley, Kansas City girl who leaped overnight to stardom in New York, Atlanta's 1926 opera season reaches perhaps its peak of interest. Certainly, the prospect of hearing her sing the famous "Mad Scene" and soar through the vocalistic heights of the "Sextet," with Gigli, de Luca, Rothier, Robertson and Bada, is an opportunity that something more than 6,000 Atlanta and southern opera lovers are determined not to miss.

Thursday night, with no opera performance scheduled, witnessed one of the biggest events of the week in the fancy dress ball at the Biltmore, when the ballet dancers, the premiere ballerinas, Florence Rudolph and Louise Borden, displayed their art without stint; when world-famous singers followed one another in singing all sorts and conditions of songs for amusement of guests and when the guests themselves appeared in fancy dress costumes suited to the name of the frolic, "A Night in Old Madrid." Everybody danced and revelled into the small hours of the morning.

AGREEMENT SEEN ON FRENCH DEBT

years, and $100,000,000 for the next 56 years, the time of settlement extending to 68 years instead of 62. It was stated here emphatically Thursday that the American commission would not accept an offer similar to the last Caillaux offer or one which called for less, which is well known to the French government.

Long Term Payments.

Taking the total of $6,700,000,000 said to be provided by the new French proposal, and the present value of 60 cents on the dollar, it is estimated that payments could be fixed at $25,000,000 for the first five years, $80,000,000 for the next five years and $120,000,000 for the remaining 52 years.

The "security clause" upon which the French insisted in the last negotiations, and which the American commission opposed wholeheartedly, is agreed to be dropped from any agreement worked out at this time, perhaps with an understanding that if France finds herself in financial straits she can postpone her payments of only $100,000,000, so reports that this would be the limit in the new offer are discounted here. The French likewise balked at going over $100,000,000 a year formerly, but it is presumed they have come to realize that they must make such a concession if an agreement is to be reached.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS CABLED TO BERENGER.

BY HENRY WALES.

Paris, April 22.—Final and complete instructions concerning the details of formal proposals France will make to the debt funding commission Saturday were cabled to Ambassador Berenger at Washington this evening after a consultation between Finance Minister Peret, Premier Briand and other government officials.

The opinion of the cabinet is divided over the importance of the safeguard clause, linking up reparations and debts, with the premier favoring abandoning it if it threatens to torpedo the accord. Joseph Caillaux's insistence did. The finance minister strongly advocates the incorporation of the clause, and the press solidly supports him.

A compromise safeguard has been drawn up providing that France never will be required to ship any part of its gold reserve—amounting to 3,500,000,000 gold francs—to the United States as payment if the currency depreciates to a point making the purchase of dollars prohibitive, and another guarantee that transfers of annuities never will be forced if they prejudice the franc's exchange rate in connection with Germany's reparations payments.

Great Loans Planned.

Government treasury officials in consultation with the cabinet members already are envisaging the prospects of obtaining huge loans and credits in New York as soon as the war debt is funded. It is expected that several hundred million dollars will be demanded from Wall Street and an American banking consortium for stabilizing the franc around 20 to a dollar and retiring a large bloc of short term national defense bonds. It is admitted that such loans carry at least 7 percent and as they are several points below par, this amounts to nearly 8 percent.

The French offer which the secretary of the treasury approves and will recommend to the committee, provides for recovering about 50 percent of the loans the United States made to France.

GARNER DEBT PLAN SCORED BY MELLON.

Washington, April 22.—(AP)—The plan of Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, for settlement of American-German war claims, put forward in a counter-proposal to that of the treasury, was declared impracticable today by Secretary Mellon.

Mr. Mellon held that Mr. Garner's scheme, which would require Germany to issue bonds to be held in security upon the release of alien property, went beyond the jurisdiction of congress.

PRIVATE AFFAIRS OF SOLONS AIRED

senators, congressmen and previous vice presidents. William J. Bryan, while secretary of state, was criticized for chautauqua speeches, it being contended that the dignity of the office suffered when its occupant permitted himself to be sandwiched between a troupe of Alpine yodelers and a sword swallower. Yet Vice President Marshall was a regular chautauqua speaker and insisted that he had to have extra money to live in Washington. The late Senator La Follette, who was overcautious about being compromised in money matters, was a perennial chautauqua orator and in that way paid off his campaign debts.

The practice is defended on the ground that the pay of public officials is low and that unless a man has private resources, he must obtain additional income from some source. Some derive revenue from magazine articles. Only when pay is taken from a source which might be interested in pending or potential legislation has the question of propriety been raised and even in such cases it is held to be only for the individual concerned to decide.

Congress scrutinizes the private connections of newspaper correspondents admitted to the press galleries and does not permit them to prosecute claims before congress or the departments, or to be employed by any person or corporation having legislation before congress.

DEVER ACCUSES FEDERAL AGENTS.

Washington, April 22.—Defense of prohibition conditions in Chicago by Mayor Dever and details of how one dry organization works were heard by the senate judiciary subcommittee Thursday after additional time was allowed both sides.

Mayor Dever said he had to threaten to appeal to President Coolidge before he could get cooperation of federal authorities in stamping out liquor corruption. This was in answer to the charges recently laid before the senate judiciary subcommittee by Attorney Olsen, Chicago, who said he had been unable to get local cooperation in enforcement activities.

"It's time the truth was told about Chicago," Dever said. After explaining that he had been elected with dry support, Dever asked: "Do you think that I or the men I have been working with would sell out the city to bootleggers and beer runners?"

Sees Extinction Of Bobbed Hair In Five Years

New Orleans, La., April 22.—(AP)—Bobbed hair women will be almost unknown in the United States within five years, Archibald G. Smith, of Buffalo, N. Y., predicted here today in a speech before the delegates to the convention of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association.

"All fashions go in cycles of about seven years, though some last longer," asserted Mr. Smith. "Five years ago, bobbed hair was a rarity. Only in the past two or three years has it become almost universal. As many manufacturers of hair pins, though the fashion has undeniably struck a blow to our business, are confident from authentic fashion information that five years from today, a bobbed haired woman will be almost unknown in the United States."

CANADA AUTO MAKERS REQUEST BOOST IN TARIFF

Toronto, April 22.—(AP)—Representatives of 200 manufacturers of automobiles and of allied industries have decided to present an appeal to the federal government asking that the new reductions in the tariff on imported automobiles be cancelled and that the matter be referred to the newly created tariff advisory board. The appeal suggests that the government should have removed the excessive duties and sales tax on automobiles, instead of decreasing the tariff, thereby making automobiles much cheaper without disturbing the industry. Pointing out that the sales of Canadian-made automobiles in 1925 amounted to $107,000,000 and that at least 100,000 people are dependent on the industry, the appeal expresses belief that the tariff reductions will gradually weaken the industry until many plants are extinguished, thereby transferring capital and opportunity for employment to the United States.

RICH YOUTH, 19, TAKES HIS SECOND BRIDE IN 2 YEARS

Chicago, April 22.—(AP)—Nineteen-year-old Harry C. Moir, Jr., with the consent of his father, owner of the Morrison hotel, today obtained a license to take his second wife, Martha Irene Grief, 15. Two years ago the boy and Irene Johnson, now 18, eloped to Washington, D. C., but returned to a storm of parental objection and the marriage was annulled.

"I have seen man after man shot and killed for going over the borders," he said, describing his experiences in West Virginia and Kentucky districts. "It would make a slaughter house to legalize liquor with all these cars going over the mountain roads."

When he was a bartender, he said, on Saturday nights men used to come into the saloon and polish up their pistols and their ax handles in preparation for brawls.

Constitution Bureau.
Rome, Ga., April 22.—A verdict of not guilty was returned today in the trial of Arthur Chapman, charged with the murder of "Bud" Gilmore near the latter's home in Foster's mill district on the night of February 28. Self-defense was the plea of Chapman.

Rome, Ga., April 22.—Cave Spring Consolidated school will be represented at the seventh district meet at Marietta Friday and Saturday.

The following students have entered in the various contests: Music, Mary Barrow; recitation, Martha Mayne; declamation, Richard Montgomery; essay, Sarah Word and Allen Carver. Seven boys will take part in the various athletic events.

The Cave Spring school is always well represented at the meets and this year the students have spent much time in preparation for the contests. O. J. Strange, superintendent, received notice this week from Dr. J. S. Stewart, of Athens, that Cave Spring consolidated was advanced to Group I. No. 1 of accredited high schools at a recent meeting of the state accrediting board. The pupils and patrons are proud of the fact that their school has been given this promotion in classification.

The school will close May 24, at which time 48 members of the senior class are to receive diplomas. The commencement exercises will begin on the night of May 20 with a spring operetta. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached May 23 by Dr. R. S. Edmondson, of the First Methodist church of Rome.

County Police Ends.

Rome, Ga., April 22.—It's off again with the county police and for the sixth or seventh time the board of county commissioners have decided to discontinue their services after May 1. It was said that there was friction between the officers and the board thought it best to discontinue both of them.

E. J. Barton was reelected a member of the board of tax equalizers to serve until January 1, 1932, and F. B. Huffaker was appointed to fill the unexpired term of P. H. Vandiver.

I shall have traveled more than fifteen hundred miles for this pleasure and would travel double the distance to be here now. This is the twelfth or thirteenth season that I have attended Atlanta opera and I felt I could not stay away this time. "It is truly delightful to be here again, particularly so when I learn that the opera season is an unqualified success. The Atlanta opera is everywhere prevalent again, putting new life into everyone."

"You know the Seaboard expects to do considerable railroad construction here in Georgia, which in addition to opening up a new through short line from the west to and through Florida via the Alabama gateways, also will give Atlanta a new through short line to both west and east coast Florida points, including Tampa and St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach and Miami, and Savannah and Jacksonville. The importance to Atlanta and Birmingham of this new route cannot be overestimated. Our complete plans will be shortly given to the public through the press."

British Commerce Bodies Demand Southern States Pay Pre-Civil War Debts

Americans Asked To Make Settlement of Debt, of Which Georgia Ows $13,500,000.

London, April 22.—Doubt seems to exist in Downing street as to whether the drive instituted by the Association of British Chambers of Commerce today for the collection of defaulted debts of a number of the southern states of the United States will get beyond the foreign office at the present time.

This association at its annual meeting today adopted a resolution setting forth that Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and North and South Carolina had defaulted in the payment of money lent by British subjects for industrial purposes and national development.

It seeks to have the British foreign secretary ask the American ambassador to call the attention of the American government to the matter for the purpose of obtaining a hearing before the supreme court. This money was loaned prior to the end of the civil war and amounts to approximately $75,000,000.

Resolution Not Received.
The foreign office tonight had not received the resolution, which was one of a score adopted on all manner of industrial, financial and economic questions, and it was therefore impossible for any one to say whether the resolution will be forwarded to Ambassador Houghton for the state department; that would depend on whether the moment was considered opportune.

The action of the chambers of commerce carries on a fight which a corporation, composed of the foreign bondholders, started 50 years ago and which has been revived annually in the report of that organization and by parliamentary questions, diplomatic representations and letters to the newspapers.

The bondholders' corporation maintains a permanent organization to look after the interest of British investors abroad and keep an accurate record of the defaults of all countries. The money owed by the southern states is only one of its worries, but with patience and tenacity the organization keeps hammering away year after year and says it intends to keep up the fight until there is some sort of settlement with the American defaulters.

Hold Council Seats.
Six members of the London Chamber of Commerce have seats on the council of the bondholders' organization—Stanley Machin, Lord Southward, Lord Desborough, Sir Felix Schuster, H. L. Symonds and Sir James Martin, who introduced the resolution today.

Sir James enumerated the defaulted issues as follows:

Alabama	$13,000,000
Arkansas	8,700,000
Florida	8,000,000
Georgia	13,500,000
Louisiana	6,000,000
Mississippi	7,000,000
North Carolina	12,000,000
South Carolina	6,000,000

He declared that these sums were contracted mainly for railway and other public works and do not include Confederate bonds or the civil war debt. Mississippi's defaulted debts, particularly the bondholders' organization, as these bonds were issued in 1831 and 1838. He avowed that he had no desire to attract attention either to himself or the London Chamber of Commerce in introducing the resolution, because of the good will existing between the two nations, and any attempts to prejudice it would deserve the utmost condemnation. Sir James also referred to the longstanding friendship between the New York Chamber of Commerce and the London chamber, with interchange of visits, and added: "But there is a time when one must speak, and that time is now."

ALVENA IS WINNER IN PICTURESQUE RACE

Miami, Fla., April 22.—(P)—The schooner Alvena lay at her moorings here tonight, the winner of the most picturesque race at sea within many years. Together with the Irene which put into San Pedro, Cal., today, the Alvena was loaded with lumber at Gray's Harbor, Washington, last December, both cargoes destined to Miami. Wagers were laid on the first arrival and though the Alvena cleared the port on December 7, six days before the Irene, bar-bound, could sail, old seamen believed the Irene would overcome the handicap.

The Alvena arrived here April 12, after a more or less uneventful voyage, but the Irene was not heard from after she cleared Gray's Harbor and was believed to have been lost.

Under the terms of the wager of $5,000 made between the two vessels there would have been no winner of the race had either ship been lost.

$500,000 Netted By Specialists In Train Robbery

New York, April 22.—(P)—Modern specialists in train robbery who soon learned the rough and tumble methods of Jesse James, have stolen jewelry valued at $300,000 from salesmen traveling from the west during the past month. It became known today that railroad detectives are cooperating with jewelers' protective associations in an effort to run down an organized band of these jewelry robbers.

The modern robber operates under the guise of a prosperous business man. His plan of campaign is as follows: When a jewelry salesman in some large western city, whose comings and goings are carefully followed by the band, prepares to leave on a selling tour an "operative" of the robber band is assigned to "cover" him. As the salesman checks his baggage, containing his valuable display, the robber is close at hand and identifies his luggage. Then, when no one is watching the robber substitutes for the checks on the salesman's trunk other checks he has obtained for baggage of his own, which has a nearer destination than the salesman's first stop.

The robber rides the train with his unsuspecting victim, alights at the nearest station, claims the salesman's baggage hearing his own switched checks, and vanishes.

MURDER SUSPECT HANGED TO BRIDGE

Poplarville, Miss., April 22.—(P)—After an all-day session, a coroner's jury tonight reported that Harold (Doc) Jackson died from hanging at Poplarville today by unknown persons.

Judge J. Q. Langston tonight called a special session of a grand jury to investigate the death of the prisoner charged with murder.

A message from the office of Governor Henry L. Whitfield instructed Sheriff Arthur J. Smith to conduct a thorough investigation of the hanging, using all possible diligence to locate, identify and apprehend those responsible.

Jackson was removed from the Poplarville jail in the early hours of the morning by a group of rascals men, estimated by nurses at the Poplarville hospital, close by to have included no less than 100, taken to a nearby bridge, where they hanged him. The body was discovered by the town marshal soon after the lynching party had completed its work.

Held As Suspect.
Jackson had been in jail at Gulfport since February 20, awaiting action by a Hancock county grand jury on charges that he had played a part in the slaying of John A. McLemore and William M. Hingee, federal entomologists, near Piquette, February 12. When the grand jury at Bay St. Louis failed to indict him, he was delivered to Pearl River authorities and brought here Tuesday night. He was under indictment in this county on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Emaline Pearson in 1924.

Jess Fave, convicted last month for the murder of J. A. McLemore, and sentenced to life imprisonment, testified that he was present when the federal agents were slain, while they were on a hunting trip to the swamps, but that all shots were fired by Jackson. It was understood, however, that no testimony was available before the Hancock grand jury to support Fave's contention.

Chris Pearson, a witness at the federal trial, testified that Jackson killed his wife. It was on this charge that he was awaiting trial when taken from the jail today.

No shots were fired as Jackson was lynched. Some of the men, who forced entrance through a gate and two doors with acetylene torches, wore handkerchiefs as masks. The prisoner was readily found and asked only that he be allowed to dress. This request was refused and he was taken to an automobile in his night garments.

Reaching Piquette, a rope was placed about his neck and he was forced to jump from a bridge across Bogie Chitto creek.

LAST OF CREW OF MERRIMAC DEAD IN NORFOLK

Norfolk, Va., April 22.—(P)—Richard Curtis, declared to be the last member of the crew of the Confederate Ironclad Merrimac, died at his home here this afternoon at the age of 86. A native of Hampton, Va., he served both in the army and navy of the Confederacy. He first entered the army at the outbreak of the war. A year later he was transferred to the navy and assigned to the Merrimac.

He fought in all the battles in which that craft engaged including that with the Monitor. With the burning of the Merrimac to prevent her capture by the Federal forces, Mr. Curtis was transferred back to the army where he served until the end of the war. After the war, Mr. Curtis came to Norfolk and entered the ship brokerage business in which he remained until four years ago when he retired.

Congress Asked For $1,500,000 For Atlanta Vets

Washington, April 22.—(Special.) Identical bills providing for appropriation of $1,500,000 for new buildings at veterans' hospital 48 at Atlanta, increasing the capacity to 400 beds, were introduced jointly in the house and senate Thursday by Representative Upshaw and Senator Harris.

This legislation has the endorsement of Director Frank T. Hines, of the veterans' bureau, who was consulted in its drafting, as well as American Legion officials in Atlanta. Upshaw has been working for several weeks in cooperation with Hines and legion officials.

Both Upshaw and Harris will make every effort to get early consideration of the measures in the house and senate.

The details of construction will be left in the hands of the veterans' bureau. Among new buildings provided will be a gymnasium.

The aim is to make Atlanta a central point for the southeast by increasing the capacity of the hospital there. At present, its capacity is only about 120 beds.

Woodmen Women To Lay Plans For Securing Home for City

Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, at left, and Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley.

Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, of Omaha, Neb., national secretary of the Supreme Forester Woodmen circle, will arrive in Atlanta this morning and will be principal speaker tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Red Men's wigwam on Central avenue at a joint initiation of candidates of the Woodmen circle, Maple grove, No. 86, Atlanta, and Mary E. LaRocca grove, No. 264, East Point.

Mrs. Talley is one of the most prominent women in fraternal circles in the United States. In addition to her connection with the Woodmen circle, she is secretary and treasurer of the secretaries' section of the National Fraternal congress and is chairman of the committee on state of the order and statistics of that body.

While on her visit to Atlanta she will speak on the future activities of the society, particularly in the interest of the home for aged members and orphans, which the society expects to erect in the near future.

Atlanta has been nominated as an ideal location for the home, and local chapters of the organization are exerting every effort possible to have the home erected here.

Elaborate plans are being made for the entertainment of Mrs. Talley while she is in the city, including a banquet tonight and a sight-seeing trip to Stone Mountain Saturday afternoon. The entertainment and program committee is headed by Mrs. Emma Brooks, of Atlanta, state vice president. Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, national director of the society and state manager for Georgia, is in charge of Mrs. Talley's itinerary. She will be here for the activities today and Saturday.

Riff Envoys Ask For Guarantees Of Better Terms

Oudja, Morocco, April 22.—Guarantees from French and Spanish peace envoys that their conditions for peace in Morocco will be modified were demanded by Haddou Ben Hadou, one of the Riffian peace envoys just before he returned by airplane Thursday night to the headquarters of Abdel-Krim, rebel Riffian leader.

Receiving the United News correspondent in the Spanish consulate, Haddou, with Si Mohammed Azerkane, leading peace envoy of the Riffians, explained many points which have been raised since the Franco-Spanish-Riffian peace conference started here.

Insist on Guarantees.
Asked why the Riffians continued their refusal to deliver prisoners to the French and Spanish and thus block preliminary peace conversations, the envoys said:

"The Riffians are ready to deliver Spanish and French prisoners, but we insist on a guarantee that certain terms of the Franco-Spanish peace proposals will be modified."

Asked if the Riffians' note regarding the conference was an absolute refusal to accept French and Spanish demands the delegates said: "We demand that the honor of the Riffian tribesmen as well as that of Abdel-Krim, our leader, be respected."

The Riffian delegates denied that they were seeking a separate peace with France, and maintained that they represented all the chiefs of the Riffian tribes.

Aware of Conditions.
"The French and Spanish are aware of the conditions on which we will make peace," Haddou said. "If they will study our conditions with good will a satisfactory arrangement will be arranged."

Both Azerkane and Haddou insisted that peace in Morocco was far from assured until further concessions were made by the Franco-Spanish delegation.

A report has been circulated in Tangier that the Riffians will refuse to accept the condition to peace that French and Spanish troops must be allowed to advance seven kilometers on all fronts.

CHANCES IN FAVOR OF U. S. MURDERER, JUDGE DECLARES

Chicago, April 22.—(P)—The chances of being executed in America for a deliberate murder are only 1 to 110 in favor of the slayer, figures compiled by Judge Marcus Kavanagh, Chicago, reveal.

A survey just completed by the judge shows marked contrast in the crime records of America and England, where a murderer has almost no chance of escaping the death penalty. Less than 100 murders were committed in England and Wales in 1921, while there were 10,000 in America.

JARDINE VISITS ATLANTA MAY 8

Washington, April 22.—(P)—Secretary of Agriculture Jardine will speak at Pomona, Florida, May 1; Charleston, S. C., May 10, and Columbia, S. C., May 11, on his forthcoming southern trip, the detailed schedule of which was announced today.

He will leave Washington April 29 and after the address at Pomona to the National Farmers' union, he will take a four-day motor trip through central and southern Florida, visiting Ocala, Silver Springs, Gainesville, Tavares, Orlando, Sebring, West Palm Beach and Miami. He will go from Miami to Montgomery, Alabama, via Jacksonville, arriving at Montgomery Friday morning, May 7. While there he will be the guest of

E. A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. No formal speech is now scheduled for Montgomery but an informal talk is a possibility. From Montgomery the secretary will go to Atlanta, where he will be Saturday and Sunday, May 8 and 9. Several invitations to speak in Atlanta are under consideration. He will go direct from Atlanta to Charleston where he will speak May 10 to the Atlantic Cotton association and in Columbia the following day to a meeting of farm cooperative marketing associations. He will return to Washington direct from Columbia, arriving here May 12.

Arrangements are now in progress under the direction of several organizations for the entertainment of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and his party when they arrive in Atlanta May 9, from Montgomery. Tentative arrangements were announced several weeks ago for a reception to the visitor by the Presidents' club, Atlanta business organizations, several state agricultural organizations and various government officials are co-operating in a plan of entertainment for the visitors.

A. M. E. CONFERENCE IS NOW IN SESSION

The Atlanta district Conference of the A. M. E. church, in session in Smith Chapel, Edgewood, is carrying out an interesting program on practical topics and handling large crowds with many visitors, according to Thursday's reports.

Presiding Elder McFarlin presented Bishop J. S. Flipper, who talked upon "The Prepared Minister." The bishop said there are four things a preacher must have before he can hope to do honest work or be successful in what he attempts to do. These are: he must be converted and called of God; he must have at least a good English education; he must be willing to do the kind of work those in authority assign him; he must completely resign himself to the work of Jesus Christ.

Other topics were discussed by Dr. Gardner, Dr. Forbes, J. A. Stroud, J. W. Guinn and Steward Covington. Several visitors were present and discussed missionary work. President John H. Lewis, of Morris Brown, addressed the conference.

Opera Dinner-Dance at Driving Club

One of Week's Most Brilliant Events

A brilliant occasion of Thursday evening was the opera dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving club, this event being an annual affair following a custom since the first presentation by the Metropolitan Opera company in Atlanta 16 years ago. Members of the fashionable social contingent, distinguished visitors and prominent opera artists gathered for dinner in individual groups at handsomely appointed tables arranged in the beautiful ballroom of this exclusive club.

Beautiful Decorations.
A mass of spring flowers in the bright hues were artistically used in the decorations, the blossoms forming musical instruments arranged on the tables and side walls. Huge Japanese umbrellas hung gracefully between the columns of the ballroom, from which was suspended in the center of each a tiny electrically lighted Japanese lantern. Garlanded with wisteria, the columns and side walls. Attractive favors and noise-makers in the shape of miniature musical instruments were a feature of the occasion, while Menter's Bohemian orchestra played familiar airs from the operas during dinner and also for the dancing which followed.

Dr. Le Roy Childs, president of the club, and Mrs. Childs acted as official host and hostess of the occasion.

One of the largest parties of the evening was that at which Mr. and Mrs. Winship Nunnally entertained in compliment to Miss Valeria Manley and Hunter Cooper, whose marriage will be a brilliant event of April 28.

Covers were placed for members of the bridal party and the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. First Matinee Pleases Many Music Lovers

Attuned to the spirit of music of the masters by having attended a trio of glorious operas opening Atlanta's annual musical festival, a colorful audience at the auditorium Thursday afternoon sat spellbound under the mystic charm of golden Neapolitan moonlight that filtered down through spiked iron bars among the lilacs of the city by the sea that is Naples.

"Jewels of the Madonna" was the title of the afternoon's opera, and the novelty of the attraction, the sheer sweetness of its music, the romantic appeal of its setting, and its soft lighting effects combined to win it and its stars an ovation.

The afternoon's performance of Wolf-Ferrari's gorgeous composition—never before presented in Atlanta—proved a welcome break in the week's whirl of social events, affording members of society with just the proper moment of relaxation from the formality of opera nights to send them back into the program of the week-end with new zest and enthusiasm.

The new opera opens in a maze of dancing and love-making and gaiety—quite the proper setting for the public's conception of a city popularly supposed to sing to the strains of "O Sole Mio" and a dozen tiling Neapolitan street or folk songs. Scored at a low, and thwarted virtue as plot motives, and religious sacrifice and a band of dancing Camorristi provide the opera with its thrilling climaxes and center interest along with the voices of the principal singers.

These include the ever-popular Florence Easton, Martinielli, the old favorites: Wakefield, Telva, Basiola, Bada, Ananian, Marian Telva, Laura Robertson and Guilford.

And through the glittering skein of emotion that is the plot of "The Jewels" is the multi-colored thread that is the ballet, running, glittering, lending light and beauty here and intensifying joyous or tragic effect there.

Thursday Box Parties.
A lovely array of beautifully gowned women in filmy and lovely afternoon frocks in the boxes Thursday afternoon at "Jewels of the Madonna" gave an added charm to the atmosphere that accompanied the first presentation of this magnificent opera in Atlanta. Among those that graced the boxes around the auditorium were many visitors and members of Atlanta's own social and musical contingent.

Colonel William Lawson Peel entertained in his box his granddaughter, Miss Sara Peel Watts, and a group of opera stars.

Otto H. Kahn, chairman of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera company, had as his guests Bernard M. Baruch, W. Forbes Morgan, Henry Rogers Winthrop and Fred P. Moore, directors of the Metropolitan, and James I. Bush.

What It's All About

Simply Told Stories of the Opera

BY RALPH T. JONES.

"LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR." Friday night, "Lucia di Lammermoor," by Gaetano Donizetti. With Marion Talley, Gigli, Dr. Luca, Robertson, Rothier, Bada and Palmieri. Conductor, Tullio Serafin.

Lucia Di Lammermoor is by Donizetti. It was first produced at Naples on September 26, 1835. The story of the opera was taken from Sir Walter Scott's novel "The Bride of Lammermoor." Musically, it is among the most popular of all operas, the famous "Sextette" probably being the best known number. The action takes place in Scotland at the close of the sixteenth century.

Lord Henry Ashton of Lammermoor, has a beautiful sister, Lucy. This young lady has fallen in love with Edgar of Ravenswood, Ashton's mortal enemy.

Act 1. Scene 1, is a forest near Lammermoor. Norman, Captain of the guard, tells the followers of Sir Henry that Lucy is secretly in love with someone. He doesn't know who, but he advises the guardsmen to watch and find out, because they will thus perform a service to Lord Henry. Lord Henry then enters and talks on the same subject with Norman. Norman is evidently suspicious of Sir Edgar and when he drops a hint, Henry gets furious. If the suspicion is verified, he vows to have vengeance on Edgar.

Scene two is a "Park near the Castle." Lucy and her attendant, Alice enter. She has come to keep a secret date with Edgar. While waiting she tells Alice of an old story that a Ravenswood lover once slew a girl at this place. Lucy says she has seen the girl's ghost, and is afraid it's an ill omen for her own love affair. Edgar finally arrives and tells his sweetheart he has to go to France. He suggests that he try and make up with Henry before leaving, but the girl, knowing her brother, says: "Not a chance," or words to that effect. This makes Edgar mad and he tells what he'll do to Henry when they meet. Going to be a "grudge fight," says Edgar and sings a long good-bye to Lucy and goes.

Intrigue Is Unfolded.

Act 2. Scene 1, is "An Ante-room in the Castle." Henry and Norman chat about the coming marriage which Henry has arranged for his sister Lucy with Lord Arthur Bucklaw. He tells how Lucy has objected to the idea and boasts about the letters from Edgar he has intercepted and the forged letters he has put in their place, to make her believe Edgar faithless to her. Lucy comes in and makes a last appeal to her brother to release her from the wedding with Arthur. He answers that if she doesn't bring Arthur's fortune into the family he will be disgraced and ruined. She is growing doubtful about Edgar anyway by way of the forged letters, and half-way gives her consent.

Scene two is in "The Great Hall of the Castle." All the friends of the family are there for the wedding ceremony and Lucy is to sign the marital papers. Just as she has done so, news to her own sorrow, there is a sudden silence and everyone stares horrified at the back of the room. Yes, it's just what you had expected—Edgar has come back.

Now comes the great sextette. A fight between Edgar and Henry is only just prevented. Edgar asks Lucy if she signed the marriage papers, she nods "yes." He tears 'em up, throws 'em in her face and dashes off as the curtain falls. That's telling 'em, Bo!

Act 3, Scene 1 is "The Tower of Ravenswood Castle." Henry comes in looking for Edgar, finds him, and they arrange to fight a duel the next morning.

Scene two shows a "Hall in Lammermoor Castle." The servants and villagers are having a big time celebrating the wedding, when Raymond comes in and announces that Lucy has gone mad and has killed her husband. There is, however, further proof of her madness than this. Of course.

Lucy comes in and you can see she's mad, right away. She sings so much faster. She has forgotten all about Arthur, the husband she killed. (All husband killers forget the details by the time they reach the witness stand, anyway). She raves about the big time she's going to have as Edgar's wife, faints and is carried out.

Raymond comes in with a crowd of professional mourners. He tells Edgar Lucy is dying and they hear at that moment, the bells from the castle, which tell them she is gone. Edgar sings his grief and sorrow and stabs himself to death, which ends the story.

"STREETS OF OLD MADRID" REPRODUCED IN REALISTIC EFFECT

Brilliant Spanish Fiesta Staged at Atlanta Biltmore

With all the magnificence and grandeur of a Spanish setting, the most elaborate of all opera entertainments, "The Streets of Old Madrid," a Spanish fiesta, was presented Thursday evening in the gardens of the Atlanta Biltmore hotel when there assembled over 800 people of national prominence and outstanding figures in the brilliant social life of the south and members of the Metropolitan Opera company.

The scene was indeed a study for a painter, a romantic Spanish night, with the silvery moon sending its rays over the happy throngs at a street carnival in full swing, with picturesque groups of carnival revellers dancing merrily up and down the streets. A gentle breeze blew the many flags of Spain to and fro and in the distance soft music was heard. There was suddenly a blow of trumpets, a halt in the merriment and there appeared an announcer for the evening, a master of ceremonies, a personage none other than Billy Guard, of the Metropolitan Opera company.

The evening's entertainment had begun! There was a grand march which will forever be remembered by all who were present. The magnificent Spanish costumes, with all the richness of coloring and the blaze of jewels and gold and silver embroidery of old Spain, passed in review, being worn by the favorite opera and many of the stars, some of whom wore costumes of their favorite opera role.

Then appeared the entire corps de ballet from "Don Quixote," accompanied by the Metropolitan Opera company orchestra. Beautiful incidental solo dances were given by Lillian Odgan and Florence Rudolph, the premier danseuses of the company.

Prologue Given.

This was only a prologue of what the real entertainment was, and following this the guests assembled on the terrace, where dinner was served and the rest of the program was given as follows: Triple sextette from "Lucia," with the Metropolitan orchestra. A wonderful Spanish number by Rosalinda, "Number by Rosalinda Bori. George Meador and Michael Bohnen gave a wonderful number from "The Barred Bride." "Gypsy songs from "The Barred Bride." Selection by Lawrence Tibbett. A beautiful selection from "Carmen" was given by Julia Clausen. Perhaps the most unique and enjoyable of the program was the singing of three tributes, written by Harry Osgood, to (1) Otto Kahn, (2) Ziegler and (3) Atlanta, by the members of the ballet.

Peralta as Venus.

Madame Frances Peralta, the diva, was the most outstanding figure present and was rightly cast for the part of Venus in "Tannhauser," for it was she who, first, suggested the costume ball of last year to be attempted or given during any opera entertainment. Madame Peralta, as the gracious hostess of this elaborate affair.

Look First

The only quick-cooking oats with this flavor is "Quick Quaker"

FLAVOR is the all-important point in food. In oats it is probably more important than in any other.

That is why people who once taste the toasty richness of Quaker Oats are spoiled thereafter for all others.

Quaker flavor is unique, toasty and delightful. No other oats offers it to you. Some 50 years were spent perfecting it.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamins and this "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

For your own sake, say "Quaker" when buying oats. Two kinds now at groceries: Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes) and Quaker Oats as always.

OPERANTICS

by Ralph T. Jones

When Lawrence Tibbett offered that unique characterization of Tonio in "Pagliacci" Wednesday night, he showed Atlanta a character which he created himself. No other Tonio has ever been seen identical with that pictured by the young California baritone. Personally I liked it. By drawing the vengeful clown as a half-witted, rather repulsively deformed, country lout, he made the disgust and hatred of Nelda, as she scorns his pretensions of love, plausible, and, in fact, adds to the dramatic power of the whole story.

It was interesting to hear Wolf-Ferrari's opera given for the first time in Atlanta Thursday afternoon at the auditorium. A thorough study of the music of "The Jewels of the Madonna" before seeing it makes one appreciate the strength and beauty of its melodies and harmonies and adds much to its enjoyment. It is a very dramatic work, while the score is most descriptive of the plot and the characters in a way like Wagner's motifs, so impressive that they constantly recur to our minds. The music alone would depict the wistful plot with its mysticism. The fact that the setting is of today adds interest, and the continuous music of the modern opera in contrast to the set music of the old school frees the action and makes it more realistic.

There is no overture, and the curtain rises at the orchestra starts with a tremendous crash, followed by ultra-modern harmonies depicting the mob in Naples on a feast day—everyone in holiday spirit—dancers, peddlers, flower girls, all in a merry bejam of sound. The "local color" is further strengthened by the introduction shortly afterward of original Neapolitan songs with their distinctive rhythm and melody. The mob scenes and the wild last act were vividly portrayed.

The two "inter acts" were played by the orchestra under direction of Mr. Papi in a most delightful manner, and were quite a relief from the heavy tension of the drama.

Presentation of "The Jewels of the Madonna" was given the advantage of an excellent cast. Miss Easton, as Maliella, again showed her wonderful artistry, her great versatility and another of her innumerable roles. Miss Easton, as usual, sang with much abandon, and her interpretations are always intelligent and artistic. Such a well-rounded, satisfying artist is seldom found, and when Florence Easton's name is in the cast we are always assured of an excellent performance.

Mr. Martinelli's Gennaro was realistic and dramatic. His powerful voice showed to great advantage in this role, and his thorough understanding of the character enabled him to vividly portray this superstitious, ardent lover.

Mr. Basile, in the part of Rafaela, displayed a sonorous voice, singing with much feeling and tense emotion. This was his first appearance in Atlanta and he made an excellent impression. The flowing "Serenade" showed the carrying qualities of his unusual voice, while the dramatic portions proved its power and strength. Carmela, as depicted by Miss Telva, was an excellent picture of the anxious mother. Her voice again pleased the large audience.

The staging was most effective and elaborate, and did much to create the atmosphere of the opera. The chorus had a very important part, and sang the difficult score most effectively.

Mrs. Howard Manley Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. John R. Burgess entertained at bridge Tuesday afternoon at her home on Huntington road in honor of her guest, Mrs. Howard Manley, of Dalton.

The home was artistically decorated with spring flowers. Following the game a delicious salad course was served.

Mrs. J. A. Easter and Mrs. Boswell won lovely score prizes, and the guest of honor was presented with a lovely hand-painted handkerchief.

National Directors of Woodmen Circle Here.

Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, national director of the Supreme Forest Woodmen circle and state manager of Georgia, accompanied by Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, national secretary, who is making a trip through the state in the interest of her organization, will arrive in the city Friday from Omaha, Nebraska. They will be honor guests at a banquet and meeting of the Woodmen Circle Maple Grove No. 86 and Mary E. LaRocca Grove No. 264, Friday evening, 8 o'clock at Red Men's wigwam, 86 Central avenue.

One of the features of this meeting will be the initiation of a class, which is a portion of a class of 400 members secured in honor of Mrs. Talley's visit to Georgia. Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley will preside at the initiation. She will be assisted by the Dora Alexander Talley guards, captained by Miss Myrtle Hardy, of Atlanta, Ga.

There will be several grand officers present for the meeting, and Maple Grove No. 86, extends an invitation to any member belonging to the order of the Woodmen Circle to come.

The officers of Maple Grove No. 86 and Mary E. LaRocca Grove No. 264 will honor Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, national secretary, and Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, national director, at a luncheon Saturday, at 1 p. m., at the Ansley hotel. Immediately after the luncheon they will be given a sight-seeing trip to Stone Mountain.

Savannah, Ga., April 22.—(AP)—The steamer La Isla, of Nicaraguan origin, and laden with approximately 1,000 cases of liquor was towed to port here today by the coast guard cutter Yamacraw.

The vessel, Captain K. A. Banks and the crew of 14 men are being held for investigation.

The La Isla was picked up by the Yamacraw about 20 miles east of Pablo Beach while proceeding in the direction of Jacksonville.

GENERAL ELY SPEAKS FOR PREPAREDNESS

Milwaukee, Wis., April 22.—(AP)—Major Hanson E. Ely, commanding officer of the United States War college, told Milwaukee legion men that war was horrible, wasteful and criminal, but that to teach that war is to be avoided at any cost "is to teach decadence and degeneracy."

Addressing the anniversary dinner of the Milwaukee legion last night, General Ely attacked "professional pacifists who would corrupt the finer instincts of America's youth."

Charging that many churches have been infected with the "peace at any price" mania, General Ely declared the effort now under way to pledge "our youth to resist war at any cost."

"There is an obligation that rests upon all to make return to our country in citizenship," he said, "when we remember that of all peoples in history we are the most fortunate, owning more than half the world's wealth, service under arms to time of national peril seems a small return, indeed."

General Ely asserted that if America had been prepared for war in 1916 it could have stopped the world war without entering the conflict.

"One threat to throw our enormous resources and tremendous man-power against the warring side unwilling to treat for peace would have ended hostilities immediately."

Success Forecast For Mussolini By Dr. Houghton

That efforts of Mussolini may place Italy again on the international pedestal which that nation held in days of old was declared by the Rev. Will H. Houghton, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, in addressing some 3,000 persons at the revival services at the church Thursday night.

Mr. Houghton declared that the Bible predicted that Rome would be destroyed and that from the ruins would arise a mighty nation. He said that in case Mussolini fails, some other Italian would lift the ancient empire to its ancient and imperial heights.

The revival topic was "The Second Coming of Christ."

At the close of 15 persons joined the church. Music was furnished by a large choir and a feature was the singing of sacred selections by the Aidin brass quartet, of New York city. Tonight services will begin at 7:30 o'clock and the subject will be "The Red Cord in the Window."

"Peace, peace! The world will not find peace again until the Master comes again," exclaimed Dr. Houghton. "Men who are seeking peace are traveling in the wrong direction. The second coming of Christ has as much prominence in the Scriptures as His first coming. He will bring the longed-for peace to Christians and to those who are worthy to follow Him."

"The devil is on the throne and he is having his day, but he will be displaced by the Son of God. Morality is not saving the world; it's the Christians and the Holy Spirit. I am not a pessimist when I say the whole world cannot be converted. The world does not want to be. When I first began preaching, I thought I must preach to everybody. I was in error; I must look after my church affairs and preach at revival services and make efforts to reach persons who may be converted.

"We all read Bible prophecies. When the Turks lost Jerusalem, I was not surprised, for it was predicted in the Bible. The world surely is now setting its stage for some big international event."

The guests were entertained on the spacious grounds surrounding the Woodruff home. Here the tables were arranged in inviting array beneath the flowering trees.

Gracing the center of the largest of the tables was a birthday cake embellished in pink icing and surrounded by a wreath of sunlit interspersed with lollypops of many colors dressed as tiny dolls. Hundreds of bright colored balloons were hung in the branches of the trees and shrubs.

Another unique feature of the afternoon's entertainment was the fish pond, in which swam real fish and floated celluloid toys.

Assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Mrs. Clyde King, Mrs. Clyde King, Jr., Mrs. Ernest Woodruff, Mrs. Robert Woodruff, Mrs. George Walters, Mrs. Albert Prichard, Miss Margaret Bartley, Miss Frances Peabody and Mrs. Stephen Hicks.

The charming little honor guest wore a dainty frock of pale pink crepe de chine trimmed with cream lace and French flowers. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Depew Credits His Long Life

BELIEVES RELIGION IS NEED OF WORLD TODAY

To Ability to "Spread Smiles"

New York, April 22.—(AP)—Attributing his long life to his policy of moderation in all things and his motto that God's most useful creature is "he who makes two smiles grow where there was one before," Chauncey M. Depew, who will be 92 tomorrow, today granted to reporters his twenty-third "birthday interview."

Custom of the birthday interview started, said the lawyer, statesman and witness, when he was 70, and the custom has not been broken since. Today he used the occasion to express his opinion on a variety of national and international issues. Religion seems to Mr. Depew the vital need of the world today. "No young man starting out in life can afford to ignore religion unless he wishes to be a failure," he said, declaring that nothing he had seen in the 92 years of his life has served to shake his faith.

The world in general is a better place for a greater number of people today, he felt, with "marriages happier, in spite of the greater number of divorces."

"Radio and the automobile," he said, "are the greatest modern factors for happiness."

Prohibition does not interest him much, he said. He used to drink a pint of champagne a day, but gave it up many years ago because it did not agree with him, although, he said, "I love it."

THREE NOW DEAD IN SCHOOL BLAST

Shawnee, Okla., April 22.—(AP)—The fatalities of the gas explosion yesterday at the Benedict district school were brought to three today when the deaths of Raymond Hale, 9, and Raymond Hollingsworth, six, and Jessie Carl Phipps, six, died last night. Two other school boys were at the point of death tonight.

The victims were brought here soon after the explosion, which occurred in the basement of the school near Holdenville when a match struck by a spinning top ignited accumulated gas.

The Adopted Wife

INSTALLMENT LIII.

CELIA ADOPTS A NEW NAME.

As Celia moved hurriedly to the door of the shop the saleslady said: "Say, listen, dearie! If you're going shopping and want to do it close by, there's B. Caldwell & Co. just opposite. One of the dandiest department stores in town."

"I want to buy a leather bag first—at an English shop," demurred Celia, trying nervously to get through the door which Miss Bloomer was holding. But, with one hand on the door knob and the other on Celia's sleeve, she barred the way.

"Fitted bag, or suitcase?" she asked eagerly.

"A—suitcase, I suppose."

"Then just step over to B. Caldwell's. I bought me one right there—Tan with patent leather trimmings—Some bag, bu-lieve me! You can get one for ten-fifty."

But Celia remained firm in her determination to go to an English shop.

She walked all the way to Marvin & Marvin's, delighted to feel the wind on her face after the long half hour spent in the stuffy dressing room, with its bouquet of other customers and glaring electric lights.

She bought a dark green morocco satchel in a black waterproof case, and a crush belt of black patent leather to go with her "reversible" suit. Overblouses were unknown then and Celia had a slender, boyish waist, which crushed belts didn't shorten. Then she walked back satchel in hand to B. Caldwell's, where she had shopped before, and spent another half hour in selecting various articles, among them a sensible ulster of gray tweed and a long gray veil. All these things she had neatly packed in the new satchel. As she paid cash for them she had to wait for the change, and this brought her back to Floss & Chymes' at five minutes past three.

She was shown into another stuffy cubicle, and word was sent to Miss Bloomer and Mr. Posser that she had come.

As if by a miracle they both appeared promptly and almost simultaneously. Mr. Posser with the burnt orange suit over his arm and Miss Bloomer with the two blouses over hers.

Celia's new gown was off in a twinkling, one of the new blouses and the new skirt on in another. Mr. Posser and Miss Bloomer stood contemplating her.

"You can if you like"—he said cautiously, "but there's something queer, I tell you."

"It's very chic on you, madam," said Mr. Posser. "You look just grand in it, dearie!" cried Miss Bloomer.

Mr. Posser glanced at Celia.

"Very elegant indeed, ultra-smart," he pronounced again.

"I've brought the finish touch, anyhow!" chuckled Miss Bloomer, producing three neckties, one black, one purple, one green.

"That mannish shirtwaist calls for a tie."

"You're right, Miss Bloomer, so it does," said Mr. Posser, as if glad of an opportunity to approve.

Celia selected the black tie, and Miss Bloomer slipped it under the turndown collar and tied it knowingly.

She paused, however, with her hand on the loose end that she was tightening.

"Say, dearie!" she exclaimed, and again Celia felt Mr. Posser's deprecating glance upon her. "You'll need a genuine sports hat to go with this two-piece, not but what the one you're wearing is a beauty. I'd just love to own it myself—but it's too dressy for a 'trout' suit like this. We've got some awful classy, smart sports on the second floor. Will I go bring—"

"Not now," said Celia hastily. "I haven't time."

"Well," observed Miss Bloomer, after a considering look at her. "I guess you have to get your hats made to order anyway, don't you? I never seen such a suit of hair in my born days. Did you ever, Mr. Posser?"

"Madam has certainly a great wealth of hair, if she'll allow me," said Mr. Posser with refined reserve.

"Thanks—but I must go," said Celia, quivering in her nervous desire to be off. She said the rest of her deposit, and what she owed for the alterations, blouses, and tie, then darted to the door before Miss Bloomer could reach it.

"Thank you both so much!"

It was Mr. Posser who checked her exit this time. "Excuse me, madam," said he, "but you haven't told us where to send this," and he held up the discarded gray tie.

Celia flushed, thought like lightning, and murmured the first imaginary address that came into her head—a number in West 44th street.

It was now Miss Bloomer's turn to be glanced at by Mr. Posser. His glance met hers already upon him.

"The name, please," he called after Celia, who was already hurrying away. Miss Bloomer was too dumfounded by the address given to utter another word.

"O, of course! How stupid of me!" said Celia, flushing again. "Mrs. Moore—Mrs. P. Moore," she added on second thought, feeling that an initial would give her new name more reality. Then she fled.

Mr. Posser and Miss Bloomer continued to gaze at each other for quite half a moment after her departure. At last Miss Bloomer gasped out:

"Well, I never!"

And Mr. Posser responded:

"Nothing but short in that street as I remember."

"Maybe she just went into business for fun?" suggested Miss Bloomer.

"Then she'll soon find out there ain't much fun about it," returned Mr. Posser, lapsing into his habitual gloom. He shook his head, gazing at the address which he had written down.

"There's something very queer about this," he pronounced.

"Damn queer," assented Miss Bloomer eagerly.

Mr. Posser became stern.

"You really mustn't use swear words, Miss Bloomer, while you're an employee of Floss & Chymes."

"Well, it's enough to make an angel swear," protested Miss Bloomer, then cried, "Look at her!"

She had been examining Celia's gray cloth gown, with its Pierrot ruche of gray velvet lined with white ostrich tips, and now pointed dramatically to the gold lettering on the white satin ribbon at the neck.

"Doo-sette!" she breathed.

"Doo-say," corrected Mr. Posser mechanically, advancing his short-sighted eyes nearer—then having verified her assertion, "Well, there's nothing to do but send it where she said."

"I think I'll take it there myself," announced Miss Bloomer after a second's reflection. If there ain't any Mrs. P. Moore at that address I'll just keep it myself. Can't I?"

"You can if you like," said he cautiously. "But there's something queer."

"I don't care if she is queer," exclaimed Miss Bloomer stoutly. "She's a peach, too! I'll take my chances."

"Take 'em, then," said Mr. Posser grimly. "But when you've taken 'em, keep 'em. If anything unpleasant happens to you, and you doped up in that Doo-say gown, don't blame it on me."

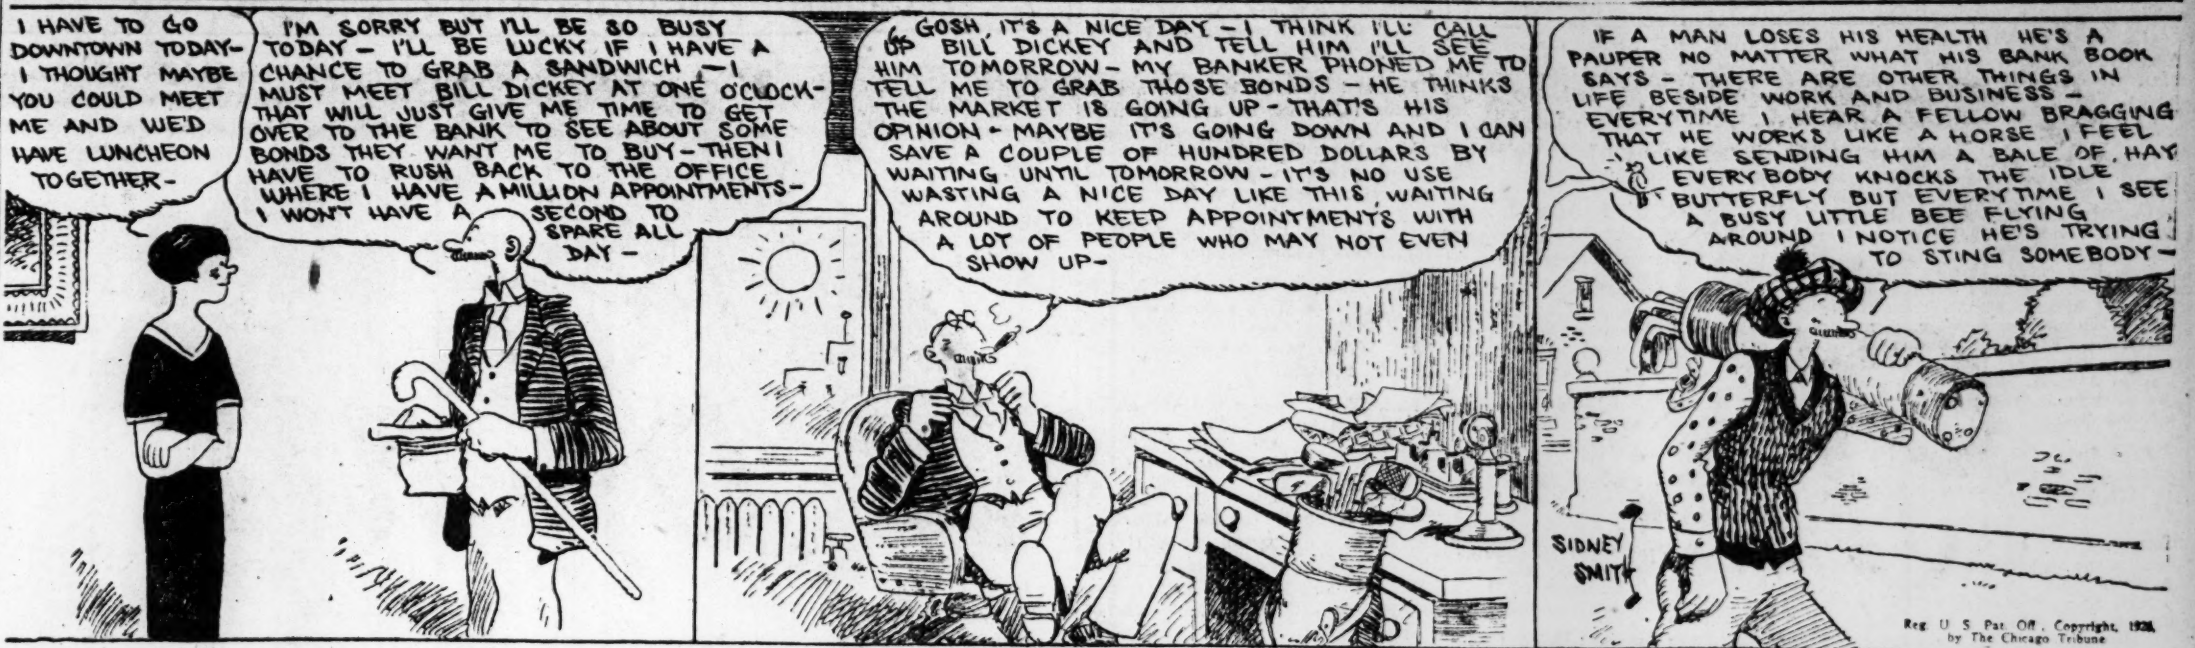

"I sure won't, and thank you, Mr. Posser. Say! Mr. Posser, you're a real gent!"

"I try to be," said Mr. Posser quietly.

And they parted, having already wasted too much of the time belonging, until 5 o'clock that afternoon, to Messrs. Floss & Chymes.

The Route of an Uninformed Shopper

This lady wished to buy a certain article—her mind was made up as to WHAT she wanted. But she had overlooked a most important point in connection with buying it. SHE DID NOT KNOW where the item was to be found, nor did she know the lowest price asked for it.

During her trip she walked PAST four stores where the item was for sale, and one of the four was on this day making a very special low price on it. With this "hunting the needle in the haystack" manner of shopping, the lady lost her time, her peace of mind, she became tired out, and SHE DID NOT FIND THE ITEM SHE WANTED.

If one little part of the time used in this "blind-folded" manner had been spent in reading the advertising in the Constitution it would have saved her time and her money—and she would now be enjoying the pleasures of her newest purchase.

You'll find the time spent in reading the ads in this newspaper every day will pay big dividends—These time and money savers will increase your savings by decreasing your expenses.

New York, April 22.—(P)—The cotton market lost part of its recent advance during today's trading. An opening decline was followed by a rally on reports of a settlement in the western and central belts, but demand tapered off, and after selling at 18.30, July broke to 18.10, closing at that price. The general market was barely steady at net declines of 16 to 19 points.

The market opened steady 2 to 5 points lower and soon showed net losses of 6 to 8 points and was realizing with some southern and local selling apparently inspired by easy late cables from Liverpool, reports of a deadlock in negotiations for a settlement of the British coal mining dispute and rather more positive talk of southern mill curtailment.

The decline was checked by renewed covering and trade or commission house buying which became more active on publication of detailed weather reports showing very heavy precipitation at some points in Texas and the Mississippi valley.

A feeling prevailed that these rains were working eastward, but the outlook was for better weather in the southwest and some traders thought the rains might prove a forerunner of more spring-like conditions. Offerings increased and after selling up to 18.80, May broke to 18.60, while October declined from 17.54 to 17.31. Net losses of about 18 to 21 points. Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest.

Selling of July was attributed to hedging against purchases of spot cotton from cooperative marketing associations in the south. A little more May liquidation was reported during the morning, but after narrowing to about 48 points, the May premium over July widened out to 52 points at the close.

PRICES REACTIONARY AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, April 22.—(P)—The cotton market was again fairly active today, but prices were reactionary from the start and not as a result of the day's trading, a little more than half of yesterday's gain was lost.

The early influence was the weakness of Liverpool due to the breaking up of the coal strike conference without result.

This more than offset the bad weather in the belt shown by the map and led to opening losses of 12 to 15 points. The market was further in the afternoon on reports of clearing weather in the west and at the lowest prices close was near the bottom, showing net losses for the day of 18 to 23 points.

At the start, Liverpool was 2 to 8 points worse than due and as a result, first trades here showed losses of 13 to 15 points. The market was further in the afternoon on reports of clearing weather in the west and at the lowest prices close was near the bottom, showing net losses for the day of 18 to 23 points.

The market started downward, however, and reports that a number of southern mills were curtailing production fully 25 per cent increased the selling, which by noon forced May down to 17.90, July to 17.50 and October to 16.63, or 13 to 18 points down from the highs. The decline continued during the afternoon due to clearing weather in the west and at the lowest May traded at 17.52, July at 17.15 and October at 16.63, or 13 to 18 points down from the highs. Failure To Jail Big Dry Violator Scored by Judge

(By Leased Wire To The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, April 22.—For six months, said Federal Judge Wilkeson today, "prohibition enforcement forces have brought in nobody but the poor, the friendless and the down-trodden." Let them go after the big fellows.

The angry outburst by the judge followed the arraignment of Nicholas Davis, a 65-year-old farmer of Aurora, arrested for having a still in his cellar.

"I am not going to send this old man to jail for such an offense while the big violators are running around untouched," shouted the judge, as he sprang from his chair and pounded the desk in emphasis. After delivery of his ultimatum the judge sentenced Davis to one day in custody of the United States marshal.

Assistant District Attorney Davidson stated that in view of the judge's feeling in the matter he would ask for the dismissal of about 200 similar cases, which "cluttered up the court calendar."

TWO PRISON GUARDS IN NASHVILLE JAIL BREAK DISCHARGED

Nashville, Tenn., April 22.—(P)—Two prison guards, W. G. Dinwiddie and W. C. Dodson, who were overpowered and locked in cells by prisoners April 9, when a break for liberty resulted in the escape of 17 men, four of whom were life term prisoners, are no longer in the employ of the penitentiary, it became known here today.

"Conditions developed by the recent delivery are being met so as to forestall any similar occurrences," Lewis S. Pope, commissioner of institutions, announced.

Howard Barr, alias Ralph Lee, who is being held in Buffalo, N. Y., for stealing an automobile, and who was among the prisoners that escaped, is wanted here particularly by prison authorities as the leader in the break.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, April 22.—Failure of the coal mining industry in England to reach an agreement in the pending wage and subsidy controversy which had threatened to grow into a general strike checked the advance which has been going on in the cotton market here but had little or no effect on the stock market.

Buying of rails which started yesterday spread today to oils. The stock market as a whole was more active and broader. However, there was no climbing for stocks. On the advances trading slowed down.

Call money opened at 3 1/2 per cent with 3 per cent again quoted on the outside market. This was the lowest renewal rate since September 18 and with that one exception the lowest since May 12 last. Time money was also easier, five and six months money being quoted at 4 1/4 and 4 1/2 per cent since last summer.
